DIAMONDS ON CREDIT

Your Choice for $50 at $5 Monthly

THESE PIECES ARE RANDOM SELECTIONS FROM ONE OF THE LARGEST STOCKS EVER SHOWN. We have hundreds of others at this price and thousands of others at prices varying from $10.00 to $1,000.00 each. Our beautifully illustrated catalogue which can be had for the asking, shows all of them. With our catalogue before you, you have only to make a selection and the article is sent on approval to your home, place of business or express office, as you prefer. There is nothing to pay; no risk, expense or obligation to assume, unless you decide to buy. If your selection is all that you anticipated, and if you are entirely pleased with it and the price asked, you keep it, and send us the price of it in a series of small monthly payments arranged specially to suit your earnings, income or convenience. Should the article fail to meet your approval, you simply return it, if ever expense is thus incurred in this brief is the Loftis System and we assure one opportunity for aiding you to come into one of the largest lists of patrons that a Mail Order house can boast. We give a Guarantee Certificate with every Diamond. We allow full price for any Diamond you buy, should you at any time in the future wish to exchange it for a larger stone or other goods. We open a Charge Account with you without any of the usual disagreeable formalities—in short, we guarantee complete and thorough satisfaction to every patron. The fact that our advertisement appears here is assurance of our reliability; but, if you wish to be doubly assured, step into your local bank and ask about us. The banker will refer to his Commercial Agency Books, and tell you that we stand very high in the business world, and that our representations may be accepted without question. It is none too early to consider your Christmas plans. With the Loftis System you can make gifts commensurate with and appropriate to the circumstances and without the necessity of any large initial expenditure. Diamonds are the gift of all gifts—they last forever; a hundred years of constant wear leaves not the slightest trace of deterioration in size, shape or brilliancy; while every year marks substantial gains in their value.

Write to-day
for Our Beautifully
Illustrated Catalogue

WE HAVE AN OFFER TO MAKE TO CASH BUYERS that is thoroughly characteristic of our house. It is no less than a written agreement to return all you have paid for any Diamond—less ten per cent. at any time within one year. Thus, you might wear a Fifty Dollar Diamond for a year, then send it back to us and get $45. This makes the cost of wearing a Diamond less than ten cents weekly.

"For Thirty-five Years a Standard Piano"

THE WING PIANO

From the Factory at Wholesale Price

We do not employ any agents or salesmen, and do not sell through dealers or retail stores. When you buy the Wing Piano you pay the actual cost of making it and Save from $100 to $200 thousands of pianos yearly. Most retail stores sell no more than twelve to twenty pianos yearly and must charge from $100 to $200 profit on each. Think for yourself; they cannot help it.

We make the Wing Piano and sell it ourselves. It goes direct from our factory to your home.

SENT ON TRIAL WE PAY FREIGHT NO MONEY IN ADVANCE

We will send any Wing Piano to any part of the United States on trial. We pay freight in advance and do not ask for any advance payment or deposit. If the piano is not satisfactory after twenty days' trial in your home, we take it back entirely at our expense. You pay us nothing unless you keep the piano. There is absolutely no risk or expense to you.

Old instruments taken in exchange.

EASY MONTHLY PAYMENTS

No Other Piano

made has so many improvements and special features as the Wing Piano. It is the largest upright piano; concert grand with longest strings, largest size of sounding board, and most powerful action, giving the greatest volume and power of tone. It has  $7\frac{1}{2}$  octaves, with over-strung scale copper wound bass strings; three strings in the middle and treble registers; "built-up" end wrest planks "dove-tailed" top and bottom frame; "built-up" end case construction; extra heavy metal plate, solid maple frame, Canadian spruce sound board; noiseless pedal action; ivory and ebony keys highly polished; hammers treated by our special tone regulating device, making them elastic and very durable; grand revolving fall board; full duet music desk.

Case is made in Circassian walnut, figured mahogany, genuine quartered oak, and ebonized; ornamented with handsome carved mouldings and hand carving on the music desk, pilasters, top and bottom frame.

Instrumental Attachment

imitates perfectly the tones of the mandolin, guitar, harp, zither and banjo. Music written for these instruments with and without piano accompaniment can be played just as perfectly by a single player on the piano as though rendered by an orchestra. The original instrumental attachment has been patented by us and it cannot be had in any other piano. Beware of imitations.

In 35 Years Over 36,000 Pianos

We refer to over 36,000 satisfied purchasers in every part of the United States.

45 Styles to select from

Wing Pianos are guaranteed for twelve years against any defect in tone, action, workmanship or material.

Prominent Purchasers

United States Governor Sayers of Texas, Governor

Longino of Mississippi, Governor Bliss of Michigan, United States Senator Cameron, General W. R. Miles, Supreme Court Justice James, are among those who endorse the Wing Piano.

Prof. Dana of Dana's Musical Institute, Prof. Nunally of Southern Female College, Prof. Peterson of Humboldt College, are among those who have used the Wing Piano in addition to prominent musicians, music teachers and orchestra leaders throughout the United States.

You Need This Book

if you intend to buy a piano. A book—not a catalogue—that gives you all the information possessed by experts. It makes the selection of a piano easy. If read carefully it will make you a judge of tone, action, workmanship and finish; will tell you how to know good from bad. It describes the materials used; gives pictures of all the different parts, and tells how they should be made and put together. It is the only book of its kind ever published. It contains 116 pages, and is named "The Book of Complete Information About Pianos." We send it free to anyone wishing to buy a piano. Write for it.

Wing Organs

are sold under the same guarantee as Wing Pianos. Sent on trial to any part of the United States, freight paid in advance by us, without any advance payment or deposit being made. Sold on easy monthly payments. Separate Organ catalogue sent on request.

A few points of superiority over any arrangement
yet devised for keeping the skirt closed:

Light as a feather.
Simplicity of sewing—in no directions necessary—but best result is obtained by sewing the "Simplicity" a little way inside of the edge of opening—a way to handle—all in one piece—no small pieces to adjust, and measure distance. In the
"Simplicity" the parts adjust themselves

FREE TO ALL HOUSEKEEPERS!

THE "1900" FAMILY WASHER FREE!

The "1900" Ball-Bearing Family Washing Machine is Absolutely Indispensable in Every Home Because it Makes Wash Day a Pleasant Instead of a Dreaded Duty.

It is a Very Simple Invention, Based on an Entirely New Principle, Which Saves Time, Labor and Expense of Washing Clothes.

No Rubbing, No Stooping, No Boiling and No Wearing Out of Clothes, Can be Operated While Sitting on a Chair.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE!

Freight Prepaid Both Ways to Any Point in the U. S. without Advance Payment or Deposit on 30 Days' Trial.

In order to prove to the most skeptical that the "1900" Ball-Bearing Family Washer is unquestionably the greatest Home Labor Saving Machine ever invented, we will send you one absolutely free without deposit or advance payment of any kind, freight prepaid both ways to any point in the U. S. on 30 DAYS' TRIAL. If you like it, you can pay for it either in cash or on the instalment plan at the end of 30 days' trial. If you don't like it, all you have to do is to ship it back to us at our expense. You run no risk, no expense, no obligations whatever.

The "1900" Ball-Bearing Washer is unquestionably the greatest labor saving machine ever invented for family use. Entirely new principle. It is simplicity itself. There are no wheels, paddles, rockers, cranks or complicated machinery. It revolves on bicycle ball-bearings, making it by far the easiest running washer on the market. No strength required; a child can operate it.

No more stooping, rubbing, boiling of clothes. Hot water and soap all that are needed. It will wash large quantities of clothes (no matter how soiled) perfectly clean in six minutes. Impossible to injure the most delicate fabrics. Saving in wear and tear of clothes, to say nothing of the saving in soap and materials, pays for a machine in a short time.

The "1900" Washer forces the whole body of water back and forth through the fibres, the whole tub full at a time. Revolving as it does, on ball-bearings, the labor is reduced to almost nothing, and the result obtained is far superior to anything that can be done by hand.

Other washers leave the wrist bands, collars and the worst soiled places unfinished 'but the "1900" Washer forces the water through every fabric. The principle upon which the machine operates is directly opposite to that of any other.

Other machines move the clothes through the water, but this machine forces the water through the clothes, and rubs them at the same time.

Carpets and Bed Spreads are heavy, and hard things to wash, but the "1900" Washer handles them as easily and cleans them as well as it does collars and cuffs and laces.

HOW IT OPERATES

The operator turns it to the right and to the left about half way around each time. To make it work as nearly automatic as possible it is provided with two oil-tempered coiled springs which engage at each extreme point and help to reverse the motion. The machine moves uninterruptedly until it reaches the point where it should be reversed, then it comes in contact with the force of these springs and, like the action of a rubber ball, bounds back, meeting the spring force again at the other extremity.

THE TEST OF TIME

What She Thought in 1901.

CHICAGO, July 17, 1901.

NINETEEN HUNDRED WASHER CO.,
Binghamton, N. Y.

I started to wash with your "1900" Ball-Bearing Washer at 10:30 A. M., and in half an hour the contents of two ma- chinefuls were washed clean, rinsed and hung on the line. A neighbor called as I started to wash my little boy's waists (which were terribly dirty), and in ten minutes I wrung them out and we were very much surprised to see that there was not a spot left. On Monday we did a big wash of 15 machinefuls of clothes in 4 hours. The lady living up stairs saw that we turned out so much work in such a short time that she asked us to loan her the Washer for Tuesday, which we did. She has a Western Washer, which she could never use, as it took a man to turn the machine. The "1900" is by far the best machine I ever saw. It works so easily that my little boy can run it. You are at liberty to refer anybody to me for further proof.

MRS. A. H. CENTNER, 636 Diversey Boulevard.

What She Thinks in 1903.

CHICAGO, ILL., March 22, 1903.

THE "1900" WASHER CO., Binghamton, N. Y.:
In regards to your inquiry of the 15th inst., I must say that the washer I bought from you nearly 2 years ago is in the best condition yet, and I believe it will always be; nothing has been worn out or broken off, every part is as good as it was when I bought it. Neither have I noticed that my clothes through the continuous use of the washer have been worn out, indeed I believe it has saved me a good many dollars for new clothes which I would have to pay if I had kept on with the old-fashioned washboard. Your washer don't rub the clothes to pieces or wear them out. It is really the best washing machine on the market, and if I could help it there would not be a housewife in the United States without one of your "1900" ball-bearing washing machines. I heartily recommend it to every lady, for it will save her a lot of hard work. I will be glad to show the washer to every lady who calls personally and answer every letter with stamp enclosed which is sent to me. Yours very truly,

MRS. A. H. CENTNER, 636 Diversey Boulevard.

REMEMBER, you take absolutely no risk, incur no expense or obligation whatever. The washer is sent by us on 30 days' trial, freight prepaid both ways to any point in the U. S., and positively without any advance or deposit of any kind.

Genuine Black Marten Scarf.

This new and very stylish scarf is made full fur top and back on the neck piece and tab fronts and lined with Skinner's satin. Trimmed with a very nice buckle. Total length of scarf about 46 inches.

A Beautiful Fall and Winter Hat.

This hat is one of the finest of this season's models. It is made by hand, in all silk black chiffon, cut in bias folds, which gives a very soft even effect. The entire hat is made of these folds of chiffon and the frame is a most becoming one. The top of the hat is twice strapped across with black velvet ribbon, No. 16, all silk velvet with satin back, finished at the back with bow and ends which do not hang off the hat. Under the brim, a sixteen inch very fine plume, extra broad and heavy, is caught by a jet cabochon to the brim and falls on the hair. The hat is particularly desirable.

Walking Skirt.

Unlined five gore, Zibeline or all-wool Melton Walking Skirt. Trimmed with straps of same cloth, as per illustration. Colors of Zibeline—Oxford, brown and blue. Colors of Melton—light gray, medium gray, oxford and blue.

All the Latest Ideas

THIS is to be a velvet winter. There is no doubt of that, whether we like it or not, velvet is to be an important item in the world of dress. Personally, I am not quite certain whether I do like it! On the other hand, I am just as uncertain if I do not! There is much to be said for and against velvet, to my mind. To begin with, it does not possess the first of all virtues, though it is emphatically endowed with the second. It creases but it drapes and hangs beautifully. But it creases, and "there is no getting away from that," just as there is no getting away from a genuine crease from velvet!

NEVERTHELESS, there is about velvet a certain royal beauty and dignity to which no other stuff can aspire. For a certain type of dress it is perfection. You cannot over elaborate velvet, for the very good reason it will not let you. It cannot be tucked and inset, and shirred and embroidered ad nauseam, like some materials, which, when made up, resemble a large piece of land let out into garden plots. It is used for everything this year from an evening gown to a short walking costume and can be handsomely braided, or trimmed with lace, fur or passementerie.

BROWN, as I have told you before, is a very popular color, and some beautiful frocks have been made in this tint mixed with lighter tan shades. For instance, a tight-fitting tailor-made bodice, ending just below the waist and a short skirt clearing the ground, were in a dark brown fine cloth. This costume had revers and trimmings of pale cloth with little black spots thereon, and was worn with a chenille and velvet toque of the two shades, trimmed with some queer pink wings.

COLLARS are again worn very high, and are boned at the back and sides. It is pleasing to see this neatness about the neck after the floppiness we have put up with for so long.

SLEEVES are a very important item in the elaboration of the present modes. Cuffs and inner-sleeve effects, telescopic sleeves and military and artistic arrangements of every character are employed, whether for inner or outer garments.

MODISTES are still trying combinations of dark blue and green, which is certainly no longer new, but dark "earth"-brown and emerald or empire green is a wonderfully effective combination, and black with green, deep apricot or greenish-blue are the favored mixtures for the season.

THE new materials are very effective, and cloths with "splashes" and dots of color present charming possibilities in the way of combinations and trimmings. A deep sere-brown, flecked with emerald and a slightly lighter brown, with touches of old gold and turquoise, are effective, and black with cherry-red and deep blue with a light green are some of the most noticeable combinations.

In the new mixtures the colors are decided, but so deftly arranged that the effect is elegant and subdued. Green is undoubtedly fashionable, but no great popularity for all green materials is anticipated. It is more generally used as a "relief" color, and is a prominent feature of the winter millinery.

A LONG straight effect is conspicuous in the new skirts, and smart toilettes are made with a skirt which just reaches the ground at the front and sides and is quite long at the back. Cloth visiting gowns and those intended for smart wear have entre-deux of lace or passementerie, and a good deal of velvet is seen, especially in the form of short loose coats of similar coloring to the skirt. The instep-length skirt has apparently won for itself a great amount of affection among all women. For these skirts all the heavy-weight cloths are used, the first choice perhaps being accorded to what are known as the "mannish" materials, although cheviots, fancy mixed tweeds in black and white or colors, covert cloths and broadcloth are all popular. None of these skirts are lined unless the strip of percale which is occasionally used to hold out the bottom can be termed a lining, and this is only done when the lighter weight materials are used.

THE new evening dresses are very gorgeous indeed. Some of the old Louis brocades are very beautifully combined, and jetted and pailletted robes are again much worn. Gold and silver tissue, too, forms the foundation of many a beautiful Empire frock, while accordion-pleating is a feature of the young girl's dress; it is also effectively used in many tea-gowns. In reception and evening gowns the disappearance of blouse effects is as true as it is in costumes intended for less formal wear. And the Parisian actresses, those arbiters of fashion, have begun to discard the soft, voluminous double costumes with drop skirts and their dresses are rather short in train, even when décolleté. All are without any fulness at the waist and are rather princess in effect or completely smooth over the figure, except where very light-weight fabrics have been used.

MILITARY effects both in costumes and cloaks and jackets are daily becoming more popular. And these styles certainly derive their chief attraction from beautiful gold tinsel effects. Gold buttons are also a typical adjunct.

Silk fringes, either, or an entre-deux or a network of the same silk, are a decided success. They are also used as a finish to embroidered motifs or dresses, or coats which are made to resemble Renaissance lace.

Fringes of dull and velvety chenille are also used in profusion on handsome toilettes.

ALL the new styles which are this month emerging from the ateliers of Dame Fashion are most admirably adapted to suit the version of the feminine "Form Divine," which differs in its entirety from the silhouette of the past decade. Vanished into thin air are the wasp-like, pinched-in waists, which looked as if they could be spanned by ten fingers, and which filled all common-sense minds with surprise rather than compassion for the owners. In those days the saying "il faut souffrir pour être belle," or, rather to be considered "belle," was a truism. The fairy ring of the waist was the keynote to the whole silhouette; now with the radical change of waist line, the figure has insensibly altered. It is in point of fact, straight, with few curves anywhere. The hips hardly protrude at all, neither does the chest, but both retain the positions originally intended for them by Mother Nature, before corsets were included in the sartorial menu.

AMONG the new materials for winter wear are embroidered cloths so thin and silky that they are most artistic. The old English eyelet embroidery continues its vogue and appears on these fine weaves, which are just the thing for separate waists. As a rule such waists are unlined and are worn over slips of taffeta in white or tints contrasting with or matching the waist. Some such waists have only cuffs and stocks embroidered, which many a woman deft with the needle has herself ornamented. A tan colored cloth waist is very lovely with the edges of the yoke and the shoulder straps and cuffs worked in open eyelet holes done in wheels and circles. Little fancy or jeweled buttons fasten the front or wrists.

BETTY MODISH.

IT was Christmas eve, and Donald Vance was buying an opal ring for a Christmas present to his wife. While waiting to receive it his attention was arrested by a small jeweled heart closely encrusted with brilliants, supporting at one edge a pendant ruby. Wondering idly over the probable destination of the ornament a brilliantly foolish idea flashed into his head—he would send it to Minna anonymously, and enjoy her curiosity and conjectures as to the donor. So he purchased the heart, feeling that he was purchasing days of unalloyed amusement for himself.

Now, though Minna Vance was an exceedingly up-to-date young woman, delighting in masculine attentions, Donald Vance had never felt a twinge of jealousy. He was in love with his wife and sufficiently self-satisfied to be sure no rival could exist.

The ring he delivered in person, with some pretty speeches, for which he received a number of kisses. They were not perfunctory either, for Minna Vance was devoted to her husband. Of the heart, which was dispatched by a discreet messenger, he had thought as he thrust his key into the lock :

"I bet she shows it to me before I shut the door."

Minna did meet him in the hall, it is true, a little unusual color was on her dark cheeks, an unwonted light in her gray eyes; but no diamond heart was visible, no diamond heart was mentioned.

Later, Donald thought of the color and the light, and remembering, wondered, then pondered deeply, then came to a conclusion. There must be some one, some definite one, warranted in sending Minna the heart. It was not necessary for her to imagine, to conjecture; she knew, or at least she thought she knew. And, knowing, she was afraid to tell him, Donald, her husband—afraid to show it to him.

The suspicion once harbored in Vance's brain, was speedily reinforced by others—by one more powerful than the rest. Undoubtedly, Minna thought it was Baron von Bremer, a handsome young German, who of late had been the most assiduous of his wife's attendant cavaliers.

Thus it happened that neither peace nor good will presided over Donald's pillow while the bells were ringing in the Christ-mas-tide. Instead, simple little facts, commonplace situations, ranged themselves on the brass footrail of his bed and explained themselves. They all magnified the Baron's appreciation of Mrs. Vance's charms into passionate adoration, a mad infatuation. Indeed, if he had taken the unwarrantable liberty of sending the heart, Donald's wrath could hardly have been greater.

The first note that Mrs. Vance opened in her bundle of Christmas letters was one from the Baron, and the first gift she received was a box of flowers bearing his card. Vance almost choked when his wife lifted one of the roses to her face.

"The dear Baron," she cried; "isn't it nice of him to send me flowers?"

"Mighty poor acting," thought Vance. All Mrs. Vance heard was "little puppy," but she fancied she guessed what adjective had preceded this.

"The Baron, you mean?" she gasped. "Why, I thought you liked him, Don. Don't you like his sending me flowers?"

Was there an emphasis on flowers? Her face was buried in the blossoms, and when it emerged it seemed to have assumed some of the color of the rose that had brushed it.

It was too much for her husband's composure. He flung aside the paper he had been reading.

"I'm off for a long tramp," he cried.

"Not on Christmas day, Don." Mrs. Vance dropped her flowers and moved towards her husband.

"Why not on Christmas day?" he retorted. "It's a day for fools and—." The door banged fiercely. Not until dinner time did husband and wife meet again.

Arrayed in her loveliest gown and decked with diamonds, Mrs. Vance was welcoming her guests when Donald appeared. This was the picture that greeted him—Baron von Bremer kissing his hostess' hand, while she blushed rosily.

Among the brooches in her bodice Donald searched in vain for the symbolical heart.

"I suppose she's thanking him for it—the cad," he thought. In reality, she was only thanking him perhaps a little too profusely for the roses.

Dinner was a failure at the host's end of the table, but Minna, quite oblivious of the fact, kept up a stream of talk with the Baron at her right hand. There seemed an unusual charm and piquancy in her manner; in Donald's eyes a subdued excitement. He alternated between abusing his luck and the heart, and then thanking both for showing him the true state of affairs.

After dinner he disappeared. His guests were unendurable; the Christmas gaiety that animated them was an odious mockery to him. He sought seclusion and solitude, and found them in his wife's boudoir. He threw himself into an easy chair near her desk, crumpling the paper in her waste basket, while his brain conjured up memories of a happy past and manufactured a gloomy future.

Half unconsciously, he spread out one of the sheets of paper on his knee. It was covered with Minna's huge writing.

"Beloved, how can I thank you? Words cannot, words must not, but I do, a thousand, thousand times. It is so beautiful, so sym—"

A blot ended the word. Donald read and gasped. There was no name. But was a name needed? Did he not realize only too surely for whom the letter was meant? He bowed his head on the arms of the chair and groaned. The hours passed unobserved. The house grew strangely silent. Donald did not hear the door open—did not hear the light footstep that crossed the room.

Minna stood over him for just a second. She saw the paper crumpled in his hand.

"My poor, poor Donald," she cried; "where did you find that? I—I thought—I meant it for part of the joke, Don, and then I hadn't time to finish it."

He raised his bloodshot eyes to her face. She had been removing the brooches from her gown, loosening a bit of lace here, a knot of ribbon there, and now, nestling under a flower, Donald saw the heart.

"A joke!" His voice was hoarse and rough. And still she only smiled.

"Oh, Don, Don, Don, you foolish boy!" she cried. "Don't you know that when people send anonymous hearts they don't address them themselves?" And then from the drawer of her desk she drew the wrapper of the box that had held the heart, and then he saw and remembered that he had written thereon her name and address. "Oh, Donald, Donald," she laughed. "Oh, Minna, Minna," he groaned.

CROSS PURPOSES

[T]was not before many long weary months of poverty and bitter disappointment had passed that Harold Warrington, sculptor, began to realize that without some speedy change in his fortunes ruin would soon stare him in the face. While thus despondingly brooding one dreary winter's afternoon the postman left a letter and parcel addressed to him which conveyed the first ray of hope experienced since he had first fitted up the poor little top-floor studio.

"Dear Harold," the letter read, "I hope you do not think I have forgotten the happy days we spent together at college. You disappeared so suddenly that although I have often tried to trace you, I have always been unsuccessful until the other day, when I accidentally ran across old Guy Travers. I am private secretary to that worthy financier George Fairburn, and he has just commissioned me to find him a sculptor.

"As perhaps you know his son has made a name for himself—apart from the old man's money—by the publication of his novel 'Cross Purposes', and nothing will suit the old boy but that he must have a statue representing the heroine of his boy's book. Read the copy of the novel I send you, and drop me a note to say you will take the work.—Ever your old chum, DICK MARTIN."

Surely fate had smiled again. Since the death of his parents, and consequent loss of home and fortune, Harold Warrington had experienced to the full the bitterness of earning a livelihood as a little-known and struggling sculptor. Too proud to let his friends know of his ill-fortune he had promptly deserted the old haunts where they mostly congregated.

Harold read the book with great care, and certainly thought the character of the heroine an ideal conception. Already in his mind's eye he pictured the girl who should be his model for the great coming work. Marion Johnson had been introduced to him at a brother sculptor's studio. She was tall, dark, with an erect and extremely graceful bearing. She had no relations, and lived with a friend who was a model, and who had persuaded her to follow the same calling. She had not sat to anyone yet, and Harold determined, if possible, to be the first to secure her services.

When Warrington had had a few sittings from Marion Johnson he began to realize that each morning found him awaiting her arrival with keen anticipation of a pleasant time. She was wonderfully sympathetic. Not only had she read "Cross Purposes," but she seemed thoroughly to appreciate and understand the peculiarly strong and loving character of the heroine.

In one sense the visits were not particularly lively affairs for Miss Johnson spoke only as occasion demanded; and with his whole attention engrossed on the rapidly growing figure before him Warrington had little time to spare for desultory chat.

One day when she came he was nearly prostrated by a severe attack of neuralgia, a complaint from which he frequently suffered. At the conclusion of the morning's work the pain had become almost unendurable. On reaching the door she turned round.

"Why, Mr. Warrington you are ill!" she cried.

"Only another of those neuralgia attacks," he said, faintly and weakly. "I am a victim to them. But I think I will go and lie down for an—"

Then he fainted.

It was some time before he regained consciousness, but when he did so it was to find Marion Johnson bending anxiously over him with a bottle of smelling salts in her hand.

"Are you better now?" she queried, with a weak little smile.

"Yes, thank you," he replied.

New Furs for Christmas

Louis
XVI Coat
of
Baby Lamb

FASHIONS in furs have changed considerably since last winter and this year they are, if possible, even more magnificent than ever before—not only in actual value, but the way in which they are treated. The majority of fur garments possess quite a regal appearance, and the furrier of today is a genius. I believe he could turn a ferret or a weasel into a glorious creation! Indeed, the insignificant mole is still to the fore, and the squirrel is treated in a variety of novel ways. The latter is a beautiful fur, and it is extraordinary how well it can be made to look in skilful hands.

It will be good news to the possessors of sealskin that once more this fur will be very fashionable, especially in the shape of jackets with pelerine collars, and of carriage wraps, mixed with sable. In fact, the present vogue for furs runs the gamut all the way from the enormously expensive coat of Russian sable enriched with trimmings of equally costly ermine, to the dainty and chic little cravat of some short-haired fur that is fastened at the side of the neck with a handsome jeweled clasp. Persian lamb, baby lamb, mink, lynx and ermine will all be very fashionable this winter.

Ermine is a good deal used, especially for evening wraps and trimmings, as well as for fur cravats, like the one shown in our illustration. Squirrel is revived, in a somewhat new form, but chinchilla and marten tail are first favorites.

The fur stole has given place to a broad pelerine collar or fichu of fur; some reach beyond the knees and are very magnificent.

Monkey jackets and stole capes are among the novelties offered, but it is to be questioned if they will oust the lynx, marten, bear and other long-haired fur boas from favor. The latter are so intensely becoming, and while furs are more of a luxury than a necessity in this country, the quality of becomingness must be well counted among the elements that make for success or failure.

Large, flat, trimmed muffs, called carriage muffs, are used. Some are fur-lined.

I have not seen many fur toques at present. Most of the toques worn with furs are of velvet to tone with the fur and are trimmed with a chenille fringe.

For motoring, white goat, skunk, bear and musquash, as well as smooth skins are used. To some women nothing is more becoming than big fluffy fur garments, while others look bedraggled and untidy in them.

New Fur Stole, with Cape Effect, made of Squirrel

For street wear velvet and panne are often used with fur, and some furriers are using two furs together, inserting one with another; but I do not like it.

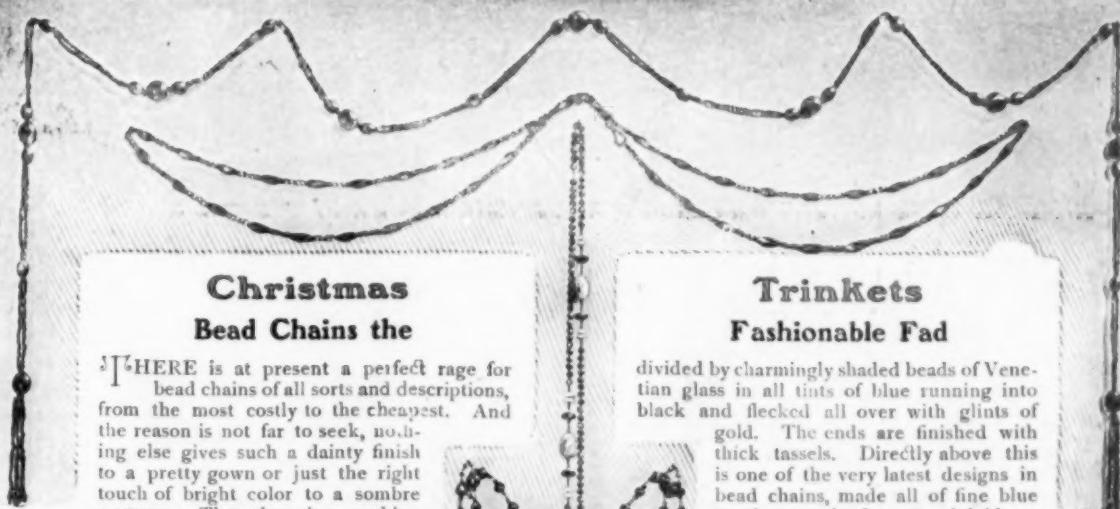

For ordinary smart wear nothing seems to me to take the place of the neat fur jacket, with its big collar, and the short, full, cloth walking skirt. In cloth the new mushroom shade goes admirably with moleskin or squirrel, while brown, in a variety of shades, is worn with the brown furs. Many of the handsomest gowns of cloth and velvet are trimmed with narrow edgings of fur. This is good news to people who have had yards and yards of narrow fur trimming laid by for years. There is a great liking for purple velvet, mixed with ermine, for evening wear. Imitation ermine can be used to advantage for girls' evening wraps. A three-quarter cape in purple velvet is cut with a shawl point at the back, and a draped hood of imitation ermine across the shoulders.

Christmas Bead Chains the

HERE is at present a perfect rage for bead chains of all sorts and descriptions, from the most costly to the cheapest. And the reason is not far to seek, nothing else gives such a dainty finish to a pretty gown or just the right touch of bright color to a sombre costume. Then there is something so essentially feminine and girlish about a long dangling chain with a bead tassel or gold or silver trinket on the end, or perhaps with the end attached to a watch and tucked demurely into the belt.

There are chains of Venetian beads, pearl beads, jet, platinum, wood, agate, turquoise, coral and all sorts of imitation jewels, besides the flat ribbon-like chains of the new Indian beadwork that are made on tiny looms. Some of the very latest and most popular of these novelties are shown in the illustrations which border this page so artistically. Nothing makes a prettier or more acceptable Christmas gift than a bead chain of some sort and one of the most delightful things about them is the fact that with very little labor they can be made at home, or if you don't care to undertake this, they can be bought in the shops at most reasonable prices. Strands of fine beads, a great many laid together and then braided in flat effect, make very stylish chains indeed. A most charming example of this sort is shown on the left-hand side of the page. This chain is made of fine black beads, divided at intervals by colored Venetian beads. Just below this is an exceedingly pretty and effective watch chain of clusters of pearl beads divided by long oval shaped beads of shining black jet. In the opposite corner is one of the popular blue chains over which the girls seem to have gone crazy this winter. This is one of the most charming that it has ever been our good fortune to see. It is made of three separate strands of tiny turquoise-blue beads.

divided by charmingly shaded beads of Venetian glass in all tints of blue running into black and flecked all over with glints of gold. The ends are finished with thick tassels. Directly above this is one of the very latest designs in bead chains, made all of fine blue beads, strand after strand laid together and then twisted like a rope and the end finished with heavy tassels having little balls on the end of each strand all made of the same tiny beads. In the center of the page is a handsome jet chain that clasps first around the neck like a necklace and has two ends finished with tassels hanging half way down on each side of the front and two other longer ends hanging below this and completed by a patent swivel and ring to hold the watch which is then tucked in the belt.

Another of the effective jet and Venetian combination hangs from the top of the page partly over this chain, while above is a pretty bright jet watch chain, made with large oval and small round beads, and festooned above this a chain of dull jet in small double strands, divided by two sizes of large round beads that can be worn by a woman in mourning. Another very pretty chain, for which we had not space among our illustrations, is made entirely of tiny white beads strung and braided like the black and Venetian bead chain already described. And while on this subject I must not forget to mention a lovely neck chain made of opal beads strung in an irregular East Indian effect. It is two yards long and has very long bead tassels on each end with two smaller tassels at the sides. Then there are a great number of colored bead chains with pearl pendants worn at present as well as some very novel and beautiful chains interspersed with imitation pearls or

A Christmas Picnic in South Africa

A BRILLIANT day, charged with electricity; a curious stillness in the atmosphere, as though Nature herself was holding her breath; and a balmy softness in the air, caressing and soothing as the gentle ripple of a woodland stream in summer. For the great day, Capetown has donned her daintiest robes of blue; in the distance the haze is delicately tinged with it; a deeper shade clothes the far-off hills. For weeks beforehand have the plans for Christmas been discussed, and now that the important day has come at last, every minute of it must be happily lived. Since daybreak, in spite of the fatigues of yesterday, when everyone had worked his hardest over preparations for to-day, even the shops being open until after eleven o'clock at night, the majority of the population has been getting ready for the festival program.

The Cloetes (the name "Cloete" being nearly as common at the Cape as "Smith" in America, is chosen as representative of the country) had decided to picnic, and they are anxious to get away in order to arrive at their destination before the full heat of the day. The servants are as full of excitement as the children, who are divided between their joy in the gifts Santa Claus has brought in the night, and in their anxiety to secure the front seat in the waggonette, or in the large Cape cart, drawn by four horses, which may now be at the door any minute. The whole household is in a whirl. It seems impossible to collect them all together on the "stoep," though the "old baas" is trying his best to drive "the missis" mad in his efforts to attain this desirable object. No sooner has he found Betty, than he discovers that Johnnie has gone down to the Van der Byls to escort Sukie, Sukie having promised to make one of the party. And when Sukie and Johnnie arrive together, they find that some friends have been persuaded to add to the crush. Johnnie therefore announces his intention of riding, and goes off to saddle his horse.

At last a start is made. Through the town they drive in the freshness of the early morning. Leaving it behind, they emerge on the Victoria Road, which winds round the mountain for ten or twelve miles to the back of Constantia and Houts' Bay, with a sheer drop to the sea on one side, and with "The Twelve Apostles" shelving gradually up from the road on the other, excepting here and there where the great cliffs overhang the drive, and tower above it like a monster wall. The whole way they are passing other picnickers; here a group of young men camping-out, with a tent; there a crowd of "darkies" dancing on the beach; cyclists, riders, pedestrians, Cape carts, fish-carts, waggonettes, landaus. Everyone is in the best of spirits, the air like champagne, and the heavenly arch of blue above reflected always in the dancing waves below.

The sun's rays are hotter now, but the mountain breeze tempers the heat, and the fragrance of the heather and the "sugar-bush," the pine-trees, and the sea blend deliciously in a fresh savour that is at once exhilarating and soothing. Very soon even the most crabbed member of the party unbends, troubles and cares are all forgotten, kindly thoughts leave no room for any others on this glorious morning, and there is actually a smile instead of a frown for the noisy laughter and discordant singing of some of the other holiday-makers.

At Houts' Bay the whole world of the peninsula seems to have gathered, yet it is certain that there are as great crowds at all the other favorite picnicking spots. The only thing to be done is to find the most retired place, and take no notice of anyone else. It is a wide, long bay, with sloping shores, merging gradually into sparse undergrowth and straggly bushes, growing on sandy soil that must once have been part of the beach. It is bounded on one side by well-wooded slopes at the foot of a great mountain, divided, surely by the sea itself, for its counterpart rises steeply on the other side of the bay straight from the water, and into a bend of this one is tucked a tiny fishing hamlet.

After luncheon the fun grows fast and furious. The Malays, decked out in the gayest of colors and richest of satins, dance on the beach to the accompaniment of a concertina and a penny whistle, run races, or stroll along in smaller groups, linked arm-in-arm. Now and then a horse breaks loose from his groom, and careers wildly along the sands; the crowds, with cries of alarm, intermingled with shrieks of laughter, run helter-skelter out of his way. The hills are dotted all over with excursionists in search of wild flowers, and a stream of holiday folk meander along the road above the wooded slopes towards the ruins of the old Dutch fort.

Presently the preparations for the homeward journey of those who have come but for the day commence, while the fortunate ones who are making a week of it linger over their tea, looking on with a mildly condescending air at the rest, as though they would not begrudge them another half-hour, seeing that all the other days of the week will belong to them alone. The drive home through the lovely vales and vineyards of Constantia in the moonlight is by no means the least of the day's enjoyments. Everyone is a little tired, content to sit silently taking in the beauty of the landscape, dreamily watching the stars appear one by one, until the great silver moon sails serenely over all in a sky now as darkly blue as was the sea this morning. Now and again they are overtaken, or pass a musical party singing to the banjo or concertina, but the voices in unison sound melodious enough in the night, and distance lends an added softness, too, so that they do not jar on anyone.

IT is quite heartrending to me to hear people say: "Oh! don't you dread Christmas? I am always half dead before it is over." Long years on years of inexpressibly delightful days come back to me, and I cannot understand. Memory travels back even to my childhood, and I can yet conjure up the thrill of delightful excitement with which, despite every precaution on the part of my parents, I, reveling in the wholly uncommon state of being awake at midnight, could detect faint echoes of footsteps and soft rustlings of paper which might mean anything. What effort would be too much to bring to one's own children the same unique delight, different from all other pleasures because of some subtle link with the supernatural, created by the divine cause of the feast? Perhaps Santa Claus, perhaps fairies, perhaps the "Herald angels"—an imaginative child is ready to see and believe anything on Christmas eve.

Perhaps in the old days men and women wearied themselves with preparations, but we did not know it or hear of it. Plenty of healthily, wholesomely tired women, but eminently happy over their fatigue, and weary only when the empty purses said, "Go no further."

Let us count the cost of our celebration and resolve that our expenditures shall be strictly in accordance with our means—that there shall be no Christmas bills to worry and perplex the head of the house—that not once shall any petty rivalry or ignoble strife as to exchange of gifts be even thought of.

One can keep a happy and even a jolly Christmas without gifts, but the custom is so natural, so delightful, so full of possibilities of giving enjoyment, that it is worth saving from the beginning of the year to its close, cent by cent, to keep it up. And the poor are happier than the rich in thus giving, since sacrifice enters into their scheme and a bit of one's self lies hidden in the gift.

The children must of course come first, but, to begin with do not crowd the nursery with a lot of expensive toys that may be easily destroyed. A few gifts wisely selected are far better. Mechanical toys, leaden soldiers, iron trains of cars, fire engines, hose carts, etc., are a delight to the heart of the small boy. Games are excellent gifts for small children, and so are books, only the selection must be careful in each case.

A doll, or a doll's house, of course, is always a source of unlimited delight to the small mother, and these may be had in all sizes, and in all degrees of completeness. In buying dolls be sure not to have all the same size. For the little girl wants a dolly in long clothes, and the "mamma doll" must be larger than the baby.

The young girl who has put away her dolls, and is merging into womanhood, will be proud of her dainty fan, brooch or bracelet. If she goes in for athletic exercises, there are numberless presents which suggest themselves—skates, hockey-sticks and tennis rackets for the summer months. Furnishings for her room, too, are very acceptable. A picture in a pretty frame will be appreciated. So will be a cup and saucer in delicate china, or any article for her teatable. Cases for handkerchiefs, veils and gloves she will receive gladly. Books, too, may be given, only be sure the author is one of her favorites.

The aforementioned gifts, of course, are nearly all equally suitable for married lady friends. But one could add to the list such things as center-pieces and doilies in lace work or embroidered linen. A pin cushion or sofa pillow is also a pleasing gift, or, in lieu of these, a quaint fruit and bonbon dish or cracker jar, all of which form handsome acquisitions to the home.

Christmas gifts for men folks are somewhat more difficult to choose, and it is much easier to tell what not to give than otherwise. Never select pipes or cigars for a man. You know nothing about them and he knows everything about his favorite kind. If you give him a cigar case, do not select too large a one, and if there is any silver mounting let it be flat and as plain as possible. Then it will be a joy, not a trouble. If a card case is to be the gift, let it be a plain curved silver or gun-metal case. Books are also good presents. A man likes substantial, masculine-looking things, and not gifts which he is almost afraid to handle.

Christmas Greeting

To our readers one and all in this Christmas number of MC CALL'S MAGAZINE we extend the heartiest of Christmas greetings and the wish that the great holiday will bring them joy and prosperity. For though Christmas is essentially the children's season, every woman and every man, too, for that matter, cannot help being infected by the joy of the little ones whose bright faces are yet unclouded with care, and whose eyes have seen nothing of the gloom of life, but only the brightness and the beauty which happily exist on all sides if we only take the trouble to look for them.

For several hundred years there was a deal of contention in learned and religious bodies as to the actual date of Christ's birth. There are no definite allusions in the writings of any of the disciples on this point, nor has there ever been produced veritable proof of any character as to the exact period in the year when Christ was born. There are very true, occasional references to the event in the Scriptures indicating that the nativity occurred in the winter season.

The institution of the anniversary dates back to the second century of Christendom, and it has been since uniformly celebrated by nearly all branches of the Christian church with appropriate rejoicings and ceremonies. The frequent, and sometime heated controversies, however, relative to the date of Christ's birth early in the fourth century led Pope Julius I. to order a thorough investigation of the subject by the learned theologians and historians of that period, which resulted in an agreement upon December 25th, and that decision seems to have so settled all disputes that that date was universally accepted except by the Greek Church. While this date has never been changed, the reckoning of it is made according to the Gregorian calendar, which was adopted in the latter part of the sixteenth century, and upon which computations of time in nearly all civilized nations have since rested.

Dressing Dolls for Christmas

At this season of the year, when every one is thinking of Christmas and what to do to make others happy, remember that nothing gives a child so much pleasure as a doll with a wardrobe or trunk of clothes. Dainty underwear, carefully made, with buttons and buttonholes, so it will be easy to dress and undress the doll; kimonos and dresses such as mother wears, and enough changes to allow frequent visits to the laundry, are appreciated by every little girl, and one of the few Christmas toys or gifts of which they never tire.

The set of doll patterns published in this number of the magazine, is a great help in making an outfit, and the patterns themselves would be very valuable for older girls who enjoy making dresses and sewing for their dolls.

Use fine cambric for all of the underwear.

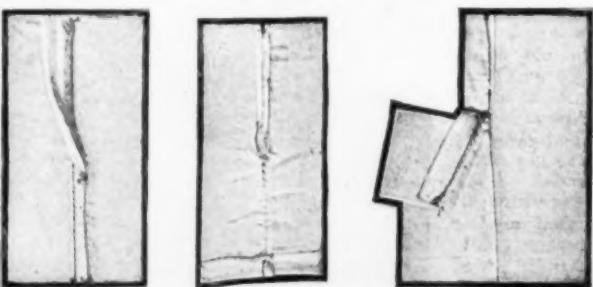

Cut all patterns according to directions printed on the pattern envelope.

The night gown (No. 8130) seams together at the side and shoulder seams with a flat fell, (Illustration 2) which is made by allowing one edge to extend one-eighth of an inch from this outside edge, which is then turned and stitched, after creasing the seam to the side, thus making a perfectly flat joining. This flat fell should be used also on all seams of the drawers and night gown. For the chemise and petticoat (in the same underwear set) where you do not wish the seam to show, use the French seam, which is made by placing the wrong sides of material together and stitching as near the edge as possible, then creasing the seam open and basting or creasing the right sides together and stitching the seam wide enough to hold the raw edges inside (Illustration 2).

Make the opening in front of the nightgown according to directions, and gather the upper edge of back and front fastening the threads at correct neck size, and bind with a bias strip of cambric. For hem at bottom turn first an eighth of an inch then at width of hem and stitch.

Join sleeve seams in a French seam, and the cuff with a regular seam. Gather lower edge of sleeves between crosses and place right sides of cuff and sleeve together with seams even, and distribute fulness evenly, and stitch. Turn in the other edge of cuff, fold through the center and hem down over seam. Gather the top of sleeves between crosses, and baste into the arm-hole with seam of sleeve at notch in front of gown; distribute gathers evenly and baste. Place a three-quarter inch bias strip on the gown beside the arm-hole, and stitch in with sleeve seam, then turn in the other side of band and hem over seam, thus forming a binding.

The collar and cuff bands may be trimmed in any way de-side and gathered in with the top and lapped over the lap on right side. Gather the top of skirt between crosses in side and back, and placing the band with right side to outside of skirt, tack at center-front and each end. Baste skirt on belt across the front to crosses, without fulness, and arrange the gathers at back and stitch. Turn in the other side, fold the band through center, and hem down over seam. Work a button hole at end of band on left side and sew a button on the right side. The bottom may be finished with beading and lace or an embroidery ruffle. Be sure the petticoat is just a trifle shorter than the outside garment.

DRAWERS.—Slash down each side at line of perforations and sew a facing on the back edge, and a half inch lap on the front edge of opening, or sew a half inch lap all around opening as on back of petticoat. Seam each drawer leg from the seat down with a flat fell, and placing these seams together, join the drawers from the front around to the back in the same way. Trim the drawers at the bottom with the beading and lace. (Illustration 1.) Gather front and back at top and sew in the bands the same way as petticoat, using the shorter band for the front. Work buttonholes on each band, and sew buttons

Stockings and shoes at any toy store.

KIMONO.—The kimono so comfortable for grown very strongly to little dolls, and are so easily child might make the at kimono is made of woolen the fronts and back to-and shoulder seams, and notch or overcast seams, tucks according to press. If cotton material is used the tucks will not need basting, but may be creased and stitched, and the seams at side and shoulder may be overcast together without pressing open.

Join the band for fronts and back at shoulder seam and press open, and baste to kimono with right side of band to wrong side of kimono, the edges even. Stitch a quarter of an inch from edge, and clip seam around the neck every quarter of an inch, then turn band over to right side, turn in the edge and slip stitch to kimono. The band may be stitched on both edges by machine if desired. Stitch sleeves and sleeve bands and press sired. A narrow beading and with ribbon run through stitched on to cover the binding, with lace overhanded on the upper edge, makes a pretty finish. (Illustration 1.)

The chemise is put together the same as the night gown, using the French seam instead of flat fell. Gather the back and front, making them the correct size, and bind same as the neck of the night gown. Bind the arm-hole with a very narrow binding and stitch the beading around neck and arm hole. The bottom may be hemmed or may be trimmed with the beading and lace.

The seams of the underskirt are joined with a French seam and the back is left open from the small perforation up, for a placket opening. Clip back seam in to machine stitching at bottom of opening, and sew a three-quarter of an inch lap or binding, in one piece, around both sides of opening. (Illustration 2.)

On the left side of skirt the lap is turned to wrong

open. Baste bands on bottom of sleeves with right sides together, and seams even, and turn in the other side of band, fold in the center and baste down to cover the seam and stitch, if desired. Gather sleeves at top between crosses, and baste in arm's eye, with a sleeve seam at notch in front of kimono. Distribute fulness evenly and stitch and overcast seam. Turn up the bottom at length desired, and stitch at top of hem. If a short kimono is desired cut at line of crosswise perforations, and turn up a hem. The kimono may be fastened together with hooks and eyes sewed under the band.

A STYLISH GOWN, $1.20.—The suit may be made of a thin woolen goods such as challie or cashmere, and should be of plain material or with a very small dot or figure. Any large design would not be in proportion to the doll. Cut the larger pieces first, with larger end of pattern to end of material. If a hem is desired two inches at crease material tucks, half an inch to the back. At the end of draw threads to petticoat, allowing the band to extend the full width of lap on right side of skirt. Turn up the bottom at desired length, and stitch hem by machine.

Stitch the center-back seam of peplum and form pleats same as in back of skirt. Face the front and bottom with a straight band for fronts and bias band an inch wide for the bottom. Stitch facing on with right sides together, then turn to wrong side and turn in raw edge and stitch half an inch from edge. Baste a strip of thin crinoline five eighths of an inch wide inside of peplum belt, and after basting peplum to this, stitch by machine on each edge or solidly. Sew hooks and eyes on under side of ends to fasten belt and hem in a bias facing.

Modish Millinery for the Holidays

Black and White Combinations for Dress Hats—Plumes and Paradise Feathers—Fashionable Shapes

VELVET hats are certainly considered very smart this winter and for really dressy occasions nothing goes ahead of the hat of white velvet. There is something extremely chic in black and white or all white combinations. In fact the velvet hat in all colors has a great vogue. The deep rich autumnal hues are lovely in velvet with no other color added. Amethyst, dahlia, brown, laurel (not emerald) green, ultramarine (not sapphire or royal) blue, red, a lovely red with a bloom on it when materialized in velvet (but not magenta, nor Solferino, nor the cruder royal purple—these shades are at their worst in velvet) are all lovely. Gray velvet is exquisite with chinchilla. The new earth brown is adorable with Russian sables. So are these two colors with the humbler squirrel or mink tail.

Plumes of ostrich, paradise, coque or marabout to match the color of the velvet are fashionable, and in a somewhat lesser degree are noted the shaded plumes, running the gamut of tints from the lightest to the darkest of the above-mentioned colors.

The colors do not err on the side of sombreness. Sapphire blues, flame reds, orange and lighter yellows commingle with fawns, browns, many tones of green and the new petunias and violets, so that both the blonde and the brunette have been duly considered. The noticeable feature, however, is that in so many instances the fashionable shades are employed, toning from light to dark, and these sombre effects assert themselves in ribbons, velvets and even in feathers of various kinds, including quills, with the most pleasing results.

The modish fabrics employed for the new head-gears are velvet, felt, beaver and the finely-pleated silk, and chenille, black and champagne, so like straw that it is hard to detect the difference. The ombre effect is most apparent in all. A couple of small birds nestle together on one mount, others, with outspread wings, are ready to alight on the fashionable crowns, while wings are sold in pairs, often recalling exquisite butterflies, especially when the feathers from the farmyard have been combined with the plumage of pheasants, the result being rich tones of green and fawn browns. There is a large supply of ostrich feathers but it is doubtful whether it will equal the demand. The new plume, in plain colors or with shaded effects, heads the list, and some are so curled that the stem is completely hidden. Paradise plumes have been brought out in shaded tones. The marabout rosettes of last season have given place to those made from ostrich flues, surmounted in an ingenious fashion by an osprey. There is another innovation, viz., plumes half black, half white, or brown and white or mauve and white.

Now as to shapes. The newest in felt are built up on the models of the summer, and yet are quite distinctive. They all fit well on to the back of the head, where the brims are deep. A model in beaver is fashioned after the heart shape, but the front is brought into a more acute point, and the crown composed of beaver, the brim of folded green velvet. It comes down well at the back and has a couple of brown quills at the side. There are some new oblong toques made in various colors and materials. One in blue violet velvet has this fabric gathered into circles, giving the appearance of rosettes, with shaded ostrich plumes at the side; while one in black velvet is surrounded by ostrich tips, a spray of anemones being the only touch of color.

This shape is also produced in pleated silk, and fits the head well. An example in the favorite champagne tint seemed to be attached to the head by two small birds with very red beaks, two more figuring on the upturned brim of black net worked with chenille. We have remained faithful to picture hats. Some have high crowns. A pretty one in panne is raised at the side by means of a couple of black plumes, while beneath the crown is a quilling of lace encircled with gold chiné gauze ribbon two and a half inches deep, secured by a buckle. A rough beaver in pastel blue is turned up from the face, displaying loops of black braid and gold buttons, repeated outside the brim.

A very smart hat is of rough red felt, the brim bound with red taffeta tucked in hairline stripes. A bow of satin ribbon and a buckle forms the trimming.

ONE OF THE FASHIONABLE BLACK AND WHITE HATS

This handsome Paris model is a large shape, covered with white velvet, the underbrim trimmed in a novel way with pendant jet. At the left side is an artistic arrangement of white ribbon caught by a big steel buckle from which falls a black paradise plume.

That Dear Mr. Cavanagh

A Christmas Story

"ME is a dear, kind, old fellow, papa; but I can't think of marrying him."

Old Mr. Desparde smiled grimly.

"You can't, can't you?" he echoed. "That remains to be seen, my dear Gladys."

"Dad, you know quite well that I'm almost engaged to Dick Harbord, and you could hardly expect me to desert Dick for another man."

"Young Harbord has no money, little talent, and less prospects. If you marry him you will be a beggar."

"Papa, I am ashamed of you. Dick is earning at least $1,000 a year."

Old Mr. Desparde sniffed scornfully.

"About enough to keep you in shoes, gloves, and hairpins," he made answer. "Young ladies like yourself are expensive luxuries, you know, and city clerks have no right to pester you with their attentions."

"Dick is superior to the ordinary clerk, and he has told me more than once that if he could raise five thousand dollars the firm would take him into partnership."

"Humph. And how in the name of goodness do you think he is going to raise that sum, or anything like it? I don't mind telling you, my dear, that if the youngster really succeeded in becoming a member of the firm of Girdlestone & Bright, I should no longer have any objection to regarding him as a future son-in-law. But as matters stand at present, I imagine that such a position is about as distant from young Harbord as—as the North Pole."

The foregoing conversation took place some ten days before Christmas. Gladys Desparde had been on a friendly footing with Dick Harbord for nearly eighteen months, and the friendship had reached that point when a proposal of marriage would certainly have been made had Dick been in a position to offer the girl a home such as she deserved. As it was, he had told her more than once that circumstances did not justify him in asking her to become engaged, though the look in his honest young eyes said only too plainly that the desire of his heart was to make Gladys Desparde his wife.

A few months before the opening of this brief history, Mr. Roderick Cavanagh, an exceedingly wealthy speculator, had arrived in New York from California, and been introduced to Gladys at an "At home." It then transpired that he and Mr. Desparde had been college friends in the old days at Harvard, and an invitation to dinner followed as a matter of course. Roderick Cavanagh was plainly much impressed by Gladys' charms, and within two months of his arrival he had gone to old Desparde and asked permission to pay court to the girl.

"My dear Cavanagh," Mr. Desparde had said, in his quick, decided tone, "it is impossible for me to give you an answer one way or the other. You must arrange matters for yourself. I know nothing whatever of my daughter's emotions, but I may tell you honestly that I think you would make her an excellent husband, and she'll be very foolish if she refuses you."

Thus encouraged, the speculator went to work, but Gladys did not smile upon him to any great extent. She told him in answer to his proposal that she had no intention of marrying for the present, and that he must abandon all thoughts of making her his wife.

"Merely a schoolgirl whim," thought Cavanagh; "she will come round in time. A fortune like mine is not to be despised, and she will say 'yes' if I give her a little time to think it over."

Thus he pondered, little dreaming that a young and good-looking rival stood in his path—a rival whose poverty was far dearer to the girl who loved him than Mr. Cavanagh's gilded wealth.

* * * * *

The chat with her father occasioned poor Gladys considerable unhappiness. She was exceedingly fond of the old man, who had always been an indulgent and generous parent, and it saddened the girl to act in opposition to his desires.

"I'll go and have a chat with Dick over the telephone," she told herself, after a moment's thought. "That may cheer me up a trifle."

Mr. Desparde's house had a private telephone and it therefore came about that Gladys was enabled to enjoy frequent converse with her sweetheart over the obliging wires. Tripping lightly in the direction of the library where the apparatus was fitted, she rang up No. 277,777, Bank, and the following conversation ensued:

"B-r-r-r-r-r."

"I can't hear what you say. Who are you?"

"I'm Miss Desparde. Is Mr. Harbord in the office?"

"Yes, madam. Shall I ask him to come to the telephone?"

"Oh, if you please."

A minute later a deep, pleasant voice resounded through the receiver.

"Is that you, Gladys, dear?"

"Yes, Dick. I'm feeling so miserable that I thought I'd ring you up and have a little chat."

"Delighted. Business is slow just now, and I can stay here and delight you with my eloquence."

"Dick!"

"Well, darling?"

"I've been discussing things with dad, and he won't hear of my being engaged to you."

"I never thought he would."

"Isn't it too cruel? And, oh, what do you think? He wants to force me into marrying old Mr. Cavanagh."

"What, the bald-headed Johnnie with the good natured face, whom I met at your house one evening?"

"Yes."

"You—you surely won't do it, will you, Gladys?"

A slight tremor was distinguishable in his voice as it fled over the wire, and Gladys smiled to think how much Dick loved her. "Is it likely? Surely, Dick, you know me better than that?"

There was a pause. Then Dick's voice trembled in her ears again.

"Darling?"

"Yes, dear?"

"Is your father's sole objection one connected with financial matters?"

"So it would seem. I was telling him about that partnership in Girdlestone & Bright, and he said that if you were a member of that firm he would welcome you at once; but, of course, such a thing is out of the question."

"I'm afraid it is. The firm won't let me in under five thousand dollars, as you know, and that sum is as far away from me as—as the North Pole."

Gladys could not help laughing, for it seemed very remarkable that both her father and her lover should hit upon the same simile in regard to the pole. She communicated the reason of her mirth to the man at the other end of the wire, and then they both laughed in concert.

"You're coming to our Christmas party, of course?" asked Gladys, when some further remarks had been exchanged.

"Need you ask? I am looking forward to it with all my heart."

"Mr. Cavanagh will be there, you know."

"Will he? Well, I have no objection. He is a very decent old chap, and one can't blame him for loving you, for the man who did not do so would be a marvel of eccentricity."

"Oh, Dick, what flattery!"

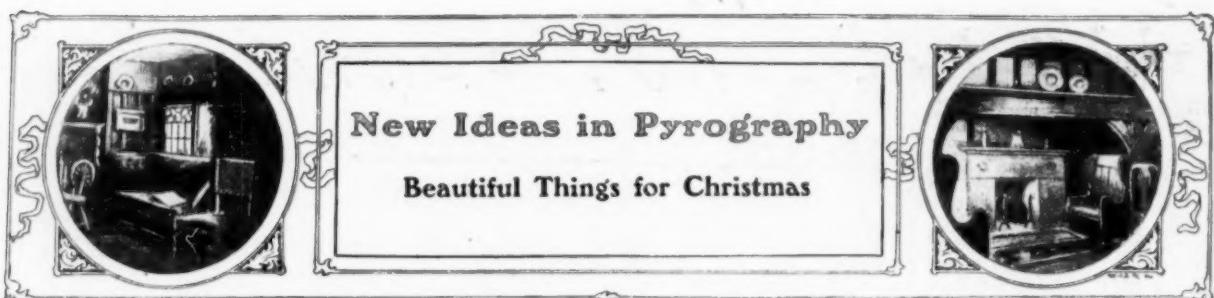

"It is the living truth."

At this point Dick was summoned away from the telephone. Before he went, however, he contrived to signal something that closely resembled a kiss over the wires, and Gladys, feeling considerably comforted, hung up the receiver and went upstairs to dress for dinner.

* * * * *

Christmas Eve arrived in due course in exactly the same manner as any other evening, and a small but cheery party assembled at Mr. Desparde's hospitable mansion.

"Have you seen anything of Cavanagh?" inquired the host

PYROGRAPHY, from a great art, has developed into a common place study in the hands of the many. Those who are ignorant of its many-sided artistic and brilliant qualities view it as a commercial medium. The work, as they suppose, requiring but little experience and its value fully assured if only a design or pattern is carefully followed.

In the shops this much abused decoration is hopelessly desecrated. We find ugly specimens combined with glaring tone and crude tints of oil painting. Bad figure subjects of unformed flowers and leaves vie with each other in garish colorings lacking beauty and harmony. These devices are generally pretentious subjects badly done of common place ornamentations, which captivate the fancy and have no possible artistic merit to recommend them.

We are offered all sorts of articles in household appointments for every room from a kitchen ladle or spoon to equipments of a larger grade.

As a help to the amateur the design is generally stamped on the white wood and is then ready for burning. Those appointments without any design are now eagerly sought by the etcher, who, having a knowledge of drawing or sketching, makes his own composition, which afterwards is worked up by the pyrographer if possible to a state of perfection when finished. For this wonderful art more is required than a smattering of the subject to make it a thing of beauty. But as this fad of crude examples is nearly over we trust that fire painting will go back to its original purpose, and become again an important branch of decorative art.

For the amateur who desires to perfect herself in this charming profession there are rules and good suggestions as an aid to help along the work. For the beginner it is best to select some simple subject, and if one is partial to flower study with a knowledge of sketching there is the whole floral kingdom from which to choose. Any useful article such as a paper cutter, a photograph frame, a box cover or any other trifling accessory may be charmingly treated if the pencil sketch which is the model for the fire etching be perfect in outline.

frame, a box cover or any other trifling accessory may be charmingly treated if the pencil sketch which is the model for the fire etching be perfect in outline. After the design is burnt in and well considered, mistakes can be corrected, lines added or else obliterated, and the more graceful ones supplied, so that the sketch or picture needs only the art of the fire etcher to give it the artistic quality desired. If possible work from nature, but if this is not feasible select some simple copy of a field grass or flower and carefully follow it. The student if he is wise hopes that with a better knowledge of the subject the illustrations will show in time a promise that only hard study and close persistence will attain.

The Christmas Dinner

THE most important part of the Christmas dinner is, of course, the roast goose or turkey, whichever is preferred. But if we hold at all to conventional customs, one or the other is absolutely necessary, without which piece de resistance, as the French call the principal dish of the meal, the dinner would not be a real Christmas dinner at all. At elaborate entertainments both goose and turkey are always served as well as game, ham, tongue and chicken pie. In fact, Christmas and Thanksgiving are about the only days in the year when it is considered at all good taste to have a table literally groaning with viands. On ordinary occasions the habit of serving but few dishes in a course and cutting down the number of courses to five or six, or at most ten, has done away with the overloaded table in which our grandmothers took such huge delight. But on the old holidays the old customs come back for a short lease of life, and we can have whatever we want to eat and just as much of it, and in just as great variety as we desire without feeling that we are committing an unpardonable solecism against all the laws of good form. But alas, while we can without much difficulty have the dinners of our grandfathers, we cannot resurrect their fine digestions, so the most of us are prone to shake our heads and pass by many a fine dish that in the old days our ancestors could enjoy without a thought of the reckoning on the morrow. A very good menu for the Christmas dinner would be,

Cream of Tomato Soup	Apple Sauce
Roast Goose
Turkey	Cranberry Sauce
Boiled Turnips	Squash
Mashed Potatoes	Oyster Plant
Chicken Pudding	Celery Salad
Roast Ham	Cider
Plum Pudding	Mince Pie

Black Coffee

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP.

To one quart of milk add one pint of well-cooked and strained tomatoes. Then add one teaspoonful of soda and one-third cup of finely rolled crackers, let it come to a boil and season with salt and pepper.

APPLE SAUCE FOR ROAST GOOSE.—Take half a dozen apples, pare them, take out the cores and cut in small pieces and stew in one cup of brown stock until they are tender. Rub them through a sieve and season with a dash of cayenne pepper.

CHICKEN PUDDING.—Is rather a novelty which will please most people who have grown rather tired of chicken pie. Cut up two young chickens, and season them with pepper and salt, and a little mace and nutmeg. Put them into a saucepan with two large spoonfuls of butter, and water enough to cover them.

Stew them gently; and, when about half cooked, take them out and set them away to cool. Pour off the gravy, and reserve it to be served up separately. In the meantime make a batter, as if for a pudding, of a pound of flour stirred gradually into a quart of milk, six eggs well beaten and added by degrees to the mixture, and a very little salt. Put a layer of chicken in the bottom of the pie-dish, and pour over it some of the batter; then another layer of chicken, and then some more batter, and so on, having a cover of batter on the top. Bake till it is brown. Break an egg into the gravy which you have set away, boil it up, and send it to table in a sauce-tureen, pour over the pudding.

ROAST HAM.—Take your ham the night before it is required and let it soak in cold water until the next morning. Trim it carefully and cover it entirely with a thick paste of flour and water and let it bake in a slow oven for eight hours. Then take out, remove the baked crust and skim and dredge the top thickly with finely rolled cracker crumbs and sprinkle over a little

EVERY woman rejoices in a nice, comfortable pair of bed slippers. They are acceptable for all seasons of the year, and when the weather is cold, and the feet need a warm protection or they suffer at night during the sleeping hours, these well-made worsted slippers will be sure to find a welcome for all who need them.

In making worsted slippers any color can be utilized, yet all slipper-makers have decided preferences and declare that lighter shades are considered better than darker hues.

LOW BEDROOM SLIPPERS.—The material necessary for this delightful footgear is 3 hanks of double Germantown wool, 2 steel knitting needles, number 11 or 12 steel crochet needle coarse. If two colors of Germantown are used  $1\frac{1}{2}$  hanks of each color is needed.

The color for the body of the shoe is best of gray, with pink; blue, red or lilac for the top piece and balls.

For a number four slipper, cast on twenty stitches and after knitting across 6 times (making three ridges) widen by knitting the second stitch on the needle twice, also the stitch next to the last one on the same needle knit twice. There will be 22 stitches. After again knitting (3 ridges) 6 times across widen as before and continue to widen after every three ridges until there are 34 or 36 stitches on the needle. Then knit until from toe to instep there are 28 or 29 ridges. Bind off all of the 34 or 36 stitches excepting 12 and continue knitting until there is a strip of the 12 stitches large enough to go around the sides and heel and after sewing the shoe to the sole join the strip to the front of the shoe. For the top cast on 12 stitches of the bright color chosen and knit a strip long enough to go round the entire top of the shoe closing it in the back, crochet a beading of the gray wool and in this beading crochet a scallop of the color of which the strip is made. Sew this strip to the shoe, turn it over a silk elastic cord and sew it down; use gray silk for sewing the shoe on the sole as well as for sewing on the top. Make four balls of the bright colored wool, putting two on each shoe. To make the balls cut eight circular pieces of cardboard about an inch in diameter, cutting a pink wool and with ribbons of the same beautiful color. For a young girl the shoes may take on a rich cream color trimmed with any pretty tint preferred. As an elegance in shoe-gear for an older person violet of a pale hue, gray in its most delicate shade, and rich purples of several tones make up wonderfully well if trimmed with cream wool and cream ribbons. The materials used for these every day and every night comforts are 3 hanks of double Germantown wool;  $1\frac{1}{2}$  hanks of each color;  $2\frac{1}{4}$  to  $2\frac{1}{2}$  yards of number 3 or 4 ribbons to match the color of the tops, for this satin or single-faced ribbon is best.

To make them, follow directions given for the low shoes. Bind off only at instep 10 or 12 stitches, knit 12 or 10 into point, then knit twelve stitches into the long strip that goes around the sides and heel.

For the top commence with one stitch of the bright wool, and on one side of the needle add a stitch until (for a number four slipper) there are 15 stitches on the needle. Now make a ribbed piece by knitting plain and then purling (or knitting backward) until there are 17 sets of ribs of 4 ribs each on the right side and 17 on the under side, then narrow every row after the ribbing is finished by knitting the second and third stitch together so as to make the strips taper to a point like the beginning of the strip. Crochet a beading of the same color as the strip all around it so as to have a space for the elastic and number four ribbon which is put in the same place as the elastic. Sew on the body of the shoe; the point on the shoe will fit into the sloped sides of the top piece. Tie the upper part at the point with a small bow of the ribbon and make a bow of the ribbon in front. The ribbon bows are sewed so as not to be untied, the elastic gives and the ribbon should be put on loose.

SLUMBER SOCKS.—These natty and dainty socks have sprung into a necessity for all those who suffer with cold feet. For invalids they are indispensable, and are a good aid in keeping up the circulation. For children of smaller growth they fill a need during the extra cold weather. They are exceedingly attractive looking, can be made of gay and brilliant colorings or in sombre hues of medium tones if desired. The material needed for this essential footgear is an ounce of colored Shetland wool, one ounce of white, two steel knitting needles, and two steel knitting needles number 14. Cast on 55 stitches and knit across plain, then purl, knit plain, purl, knit, purl, knit, knit and purl. Now commence with the white and knit and purl until there are 4 ridges of the white as there are of the color. Then add the color again, and knit and purl, as before. After there are 18 ridges of 5 ridges of the color (17 rows of the white) double the colored wool and finish for the toe by knitting plain, narrowing after knitting 5 rows plain, then narrow every fifth stitch. Knit 3 rows, then narrow every fourth stitch. Knit three rows, then narrow every 3 stitches and knit 8 rows, then bind off. Now pick up with the four needles the 9, 6 stitches on the side and knit six rows of white plain, then form little squares by knitting white and colored in rows of 3 each. Bind off with the color, and after finishing both sides alike, join together with crochet needles. Crochet a beading of white, for elastic (flat elastic) and a bow of ribbon in front where shoe is closed, then add a scallop of white to the beading, finishing with color. The foot shapes this shoe and is comfortable when on.

Nos. 8131-8133.—LADIES' COSTUME.—A fancy taffeta silk in the most fashionable shade of blue, lightly flecked with color, made the charming toilette shown in this illustration, but almost any preferred silk or woolen material, as well as velvet, velveteen or corduroy can be substituted for its development if desired. The bodice is cut with a front in one piece blousing slightly at the waist line and closing at the left under arm seam. The deep handkerchief collar, which gives such a modish and graceful appearance to the shoulders, closes in the center-back, as does also the well-fitting stock collar that finishes the neck. The blouse front of the bodice is trimmed with medallions of black lace and the collar is similarly adorned and is also edged and headed by rows of faggotting done in heavy black silk. A deep folded girdle of blue panne velvet in a shade

Seasonable and Stylish

No. 8165.—LADIES' WAIST.—This smart waist is made up in a stylish combination of brown and tan broadcloth. The vest, which is cut in round effect at the neck, the big collar and cuffs are of the tan, while the body and sleeves of the garment are of a dark brown shade. The fronts are tucked in box-pleat effect, and in our model are laced across the vest with silk cord run over six fancy buttons, but this lacing can be omitted if desired, as shown in the medium on this page. The back is in one piece and is tucked in box-pleat effect to correspond with the front. The fancy collar falls stylishly over the sleeves in cape effect and is handsomely braided with a combination of brown silk and fine gold braid. If desired it can be omitted but it forms a very handsome addition to the bodice. The girdle is of the same material as the vest. A deep folded girdle is given in the pattern and shown in the medium view on this page. This can be used or not as desired, some people preferring the narrower belt shown in the illustration in the front of the magazine of which the description has just been given. The sleeves fall in full puffs just above the deep cuffs, where they are tucked crosswise in box-pleat effect. For another view of this waist and quantity of material required see medium on this page.

Nos. 8145-8071.—LADIES' STREET COSTUME.—This smart toilette consists of a blouse coat and a nine-gored skirt. Fancy zibeline in shades of wood brown and white was the material used in our model; but cheviot, broadcloth, tweed, serge, camel's hair or any seasonable woolen can be substituted if desired. The coat is cut with a blouse front, closing in the center with fancy clasps or frogs as preferred and tucked on each side from shoulder seam to waist line in the effect of two box-pleats. The shaped band that finishes the neck is of velvet cut to have the effect of a turnover collar and stitched flat to the garment. The back is tucked in three box-pleats which approach each other as they near the waist line. The skirt of the coat can be cut in either of two lengths. It is tucked in box-pleats to correspond with the body of the garment and fitted on the hips by dart tucks. A narrow belt of velvet conceals the join at the waist. The sleeves have fancy cuffs of velvet and are also tucked in the same effect. For quantity of material required see medium on this page.

The skirt worn with this coat is cut with nine gores, with the front gore extended in a yoke and is tucked all around in box-pleat effect. For another view of this skirt see medium on page 262.

No. 8137.—LADIES' WAIST.—Nile green louisine was used for this pretty waist which has a short vest and a stock collar of white crêpe de chine, striped with guipure insertion. The stock collar has also smart touches of narrow black velvet ribbon. Below this vest the bodice fulness is laid in a broad box-pleat, pouching just slightly at the waist line. The big collar which makes such a stylish trimming for the shoulders can be omitted if desired. The sleeves are made with fitted caps and full lower portions gathered into deep cuffs. The back of the bodice is cut in one piece and has its slight fulness gathered into the waist line. For quantity of material required see medium on this page.

Ladies' Shirt Waists

No. 8147.—LADIES' SHIRT WAIST.—Bright red French flannel with an attractive white polka dot made the smart shirt waist shown in our illustration. The front is tucked in box pleat effect from the shoulder seams to the bust where the fulness blouses until it is gathered into the waist line with a slight pouch. The closing is formed in the center beneath the usual stitched box-pleat. The back of the shirt waist is in one piece and has its slight fulness gathered into the waist line. The fancy collar is cut in a very stylish outline with a long tab effect on each side of the front. The stock collar has a shaped turnover tab in the front. Both stock collar and big collar are trimmed with fancy lace stitches and fagoting done in black silk. The sleeves are tucked in box-pleat effect for a short distance from the top and are gathered at the hands into straight cuffs of the white broad-cloth fagoted to correspond with the collar. For quantity of material required see medium on this page.

No. 8175.—LADIES' WAIST.—Fancy taffeta was used for this pretty waist, but flannel, cloth, satin, velvet, velveteen or almost any desired material can be substituted if preferred. The front has its fulness laid in two outward turning Gibson pleats on each shoulder and is gathered into the waist line with a slight pouch. It closes in the center front where it is adorned with a row of fancy buttons on either side. It is trimmed with two shaped straps that can either be cut straight or bias, whichever way the material looks the prettiest. The back of the shirt waist is in one piece and has its slight fulness gathered into the waist line. The neck is finished by a becoming stock with very graceful turnover tabs. The sleeves are stylishly full at the wrists and are completed by straight cuffs of the material. For another view of this design see medium on this page.

Toilet Hints

MANDS which are inclined to be coarse or red should be bathed in oatmeal-water, made by pouring a pint of boiling water on a dessertspoonful of toilet oatmeal, tied loosely in a piece of muslin. Allow the water to become tepid, occasionally squeezing the oatmeal bag, then add seven or eight drops of benzoin. After drying the hands, rub well into them this preparation:—White Castile soap, half an ounce; benzoated lard, one ounce; glycerine, two ounces; rose-water, eight ounces; oil of bitter almonds, half a drachm. Dissolve the soap in half the rose-water by the aid of gentle heat, and gradually add it to the benzoated lard, previously melted in a warm mortar, stirring constantly; then add the glycerine, mixed with the remainder of the water, and when cold, the perfuming oil.

Ladies' Evening Garments

No. 8156.—LADIES' COAT.—The lovely evening coat shown in our illustration in the front of the magazine is made to come down to flounce depth on the skirt, though it can be cut in three-quarter length if preferred. White cloth, white garnitures of guipure medallion insertion and white silk appliqués are the materials combined in our model, but silk, satin, velvet, velveteen, corduroy or any other appropriate fabric can be substituted if desired. The fronts are cut straight and loose and are turned back in rever effect, faced with handsome silk applique, though if preferred they can be closed under the shaped band that completes the neck and runs straight down the front as shown in the small view of the medium on this page. The back is straight and full but is shaped slightly by center and side-back seams. The handsome cape can be omitted if desired, but it makes a very stylish and becoming addition to the garment. It is modishly trimmed with medallion insertion. The sleeves are completed by very smart flared cuffs similarly adorned. White taffeta is used as a lining. For quantity of material required see medium on this page.

No. 8135.—LADIES' WAIST.—Pink crêpe de chine made this pretty evening waist. It has a round yoke of Irish lace rounded out to form the becoming Dutch neck that is now so fashionable for evening toilettes. Below this the bodice fulness is laid in tucks

No. 8156.—LADIES' COAT (in either of two lengths and with or without Cape), requires for medium size,  $10\frac{1}{4}$  yards material 22 inches wide,  $5\frac{1}{8}$  yards 44 inches wide, or  $4\frac{1}{2}$  yards 54 inches wide. Lining required, 10 yards 22 inches wide, or 6 yards 36 inches wide; all-over lace represented,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  yards; Persian trimming,  $3\frac{1}{2}$  yards; braid,  $2\frac{1}{2}$  yards; velvet,  $\frac{1}{4}$  yard. Price, 15 cts.

to just above the bust, where the fulness blouses out and is gathered into the waist line with a slight pouch. If preferred the top fulness can be gathered instead of tucked. The closing is formed at the left shoulder and under-arm seam. The back of the bodice has its fulness arranged in tucks exactly corresponding with those in the front. The sleeves are three-quarter length and are made with fitted caps at the tops. A full sleeve sewed on to the lower edge of this cap is tucked for a short distance and prettily trimmed with lace to match the bodice decorations. For another view of this design showing it made up high neck and with long sleeves see medium on this page.

No. 8163.—LADIES' WAIST.—Blue liberty satin made this equally pretty evening bodice, which is cut with a low Dutch neck and has a shaped vest piece of the material forming a yoke and running down the center-front in a box-pleat effect. The bodice fulness is laid in clusters of tucks in the front and pouches modishly at the waist line. The back is in one piece beneath the yoke effect and is laid in four clusters of tucks drawn together at the waist line. The sleeves are cut in three-quarter length and are tucked in clusters from shoulder to elbow. Lace medallions and fancy fagoted gimp form the trimmings. If preferred the waist can be made up with high neck and long sleeves completed by lace-trimmed cuffs and so be adapted for day wear. For quantity of material required see medium on this page.

Hints for Dressmakers

THE new woolens are delightfully soft, and even those of thick texture are quite light, and cling to the figure in the most approved fashion. The Louis XVI. coat, with a tolerably deep basque, has many followers, as it is distinctly new, and can be made very decorative.

THE vigognes with big dashes, spots and tufts of white or black make up most stylishly with strappings of self-colored cloth, either contrasting slightly with or exactly matching the material, and a very decorative effect is obtained by touches of embroidery in a simulated vest, by a broad belt of light leather and a chou of satin harmonizing with the prominent tone in the embroidery.

IN simple but effective fashion, a costume of nut-brown cloth is much stitched with silk, and fastened with charming buttons in pale blue and white enamel, and belted with white suède, studded and finished with a turquoise clasp. The plain, gored skirt is only slightly long, and the front width is apparently fastened over with tiny straps of white suède and small enamel buttons.

SUÈDE leather, both in pale and dainty tones, is the newest decoration for cloth and serge gowns, but requires to be used with judgment, as only delicate touches are required. Suède, when employed for revers, collars or facings, is more often embroidered. For instance, a costume of palest brown cloth has revers of tan suède embroidered in shades of fawn and brown silk, with faint touches of turquoise blue.

BRAIDING of all kinds seems only to become more popular as the months go by, and it certainly becomes more and more beautiful every week. I wonder what our grandmothers, accustomed to their coarse cloth braids and their jet and gimp fringes, would say to the wonderful varieties in silk, chenille, velvet and cordings which we have to-day in such infinite variety!

VERY diaphanous dresses are worn by the young people, chiffon and tulle and kindred stuffs taking the lead. Many of them are trimmed with narrow ribbons, and many spangled with silver; but in nearly every instance the back of the arm, or the entire arm, from the shoulder to the elbow, is veiled either with a pendant sleeve or with drapery. The bodices are not so much pouched as they were; indeed, some of them are severely plain and many have deep belts.

Silk and chenille fringes, both plain and fancy, in wide and narrow widths, are greatly used to trim both evening gowns and wraps and a very graceful and effective trimming they make. A three-quarter loose evening coat of white cloth has a deep cape, edged with very wide white chenille and silver fringe and further adorned with medallions in cut out guipure lace. There are long stole fronts of the material finished by white silk ornaments with long tassel ends.

BLACK gowns, inlet with heavy lace, to wear over white foundations, are fashionable for evening wear, and some charming examples have been prepared for recent trousseaux. One skirt of crêpe de chine, to wear with fancy waists, was perfectly straight in outline, but very full at the hem. Lozenge-shaped motifs of heavy black guipure in three sizes formed three rows round this skirt, the larger ones placed just above the hem, and the smaller ones below the hips.

Another skirt of fine, close silk voile had a broad border of vandyked black lace, with much open design in the center, through which the white taffeta gleamed softly, and below these scallops came a godet frill, covered with fine tucks, and inlet at intervals with diamond-shaped medallions of lace. Some white slips are flounced with black silk at the edge, or with alternate frills of black and white glace.

Beautiful Hands

THE perfect hand, like the perfect face, is very seldom met with, and attention to the nails is, in any case, a sine qua non in order to preserve their shape. A famous skin doctor gives the following instructions for manicuring the nails:—"First immerse the finger tips in a lather made from a pure soap in tepid water, and thus soften not only the nail itself, but, far more important, the hard cuticle which surrounds the matrix or base of the nail, which in the unkempt or neglected hand is too frequently found growing over and obscuring that much-prized ornament, the 'lunula,' or half-moon. After a few minutes'

What a Lady Does Not Do

THREE are several things always absent in a true lady which girls will do well to notice and remember. A lady, for example, will never ignore little kindnesses; conclude in a crowd that she has a right to push her way through; consume the time of people who can ill spare it; wear on the street a dress only fitted to the house or carriage; talk loudly in public places; wear a torn glove when a needle and a few stitches would make it all right; fail in answering letters or returning visits, unless she is ill or in trouble; fret about the heat or the cold, the sun or the rain, the air or the lack of it; make an engagement and then not be there in time; complain of her family or discuss personal affairs with strangers; believe the worst rather than the best side of a story. A lady does not do any other than make the best of everything—the world, the weather, and herself. She believes in the golden rule, and endeavors, as far as possible, to live up to it. And when we have read all this we come to the conclusion that a true lady is rather a perfect being. Well, so she should be. All these little points are not difficult to attain if one only cultivates the quality which is really the only true basis of all fine manners—unselfishness.

Training Children

MANY kind, devoted, even self-sacrificing mothers find the result of their children's bringing up very unsatisfactory. Their complaint is that they have given up everything for their children, granted their every wish and indulged their every whim, and yet they have grown up to be anything but help and a blessing. Such mothers as these have taught their children to be selfish, to consider their own pleasure and convenience before everyone else's; in fact, these mothers have not only given up everything for their children, but "given in" to them also in everything. Poor mothers and poor children! For the latter are to be pitied rather than condemned altogether, for they have been spoilt by over-indulgence, have never learned the beauty of unselfishness, the need of self-control.

The future of every child lies in the hands of its mother, or of the woman in whose care it is placed. The old saying that "as the twig is bent, so will it grow," is as true of children as of plants. They are as clay in the hands of the potter, and the first impressions made on their young minds remain indelibly fixed through the future years.

It is in the matter of obedience and punishment that so many parents disagree. Children, some argue, are endowed with reasoning powers, and therefore should be treated as reasoning beings. True, but these reasoning powers are not developed at first, any more than are the child's muscles. At first a child should be taught implicit, unquestioning obedience, and it will give this gladly when it knows a mother's love, and with a child love includes perfect trust. It obeys because it loves, not because it fears, and it very soon knows also that there are such things as right and wrong. It does not understand why there should be, but mother says there are, therefore it must be true. Later on, as the mind expands, the child begins to question, and, in its own little way, to reason. Then explanations as to the whys and wherefores that perplex the tiny brain can be given, and even if it does not really understand all that it is told, it will still obey, for the habit has been formed and becomes a

Fancy Work Department

EVERY woman, young or old, has a soft spot in her heart somewhere for lace. And for this fondness there is a very good and sensible reason entirely aside from the intrinsic beauty of the airy fabric itself. There is nothing in the world so becoming to feminine faces, youthful, middle-aged or old, as lace. It gives an indescribable charm to the bright features of the debutante, and softens the face and takes years from the appearance of the matron and it gives an added charm and statelyness to gray hairs.

Our first illustration shows one of the new lace capes or cape collars, as they are variously called, that are now so popular. They make a very stylish and attractive finish to a silk waist or a dressy gown and are appropriate for girls, young ladies and middle-aged women. Another attractive example of this sort is the stole collar shown in the left-hand corner of the page. This is made of the new and extremely fashionable Tenerife lace wheels combined with English braid.

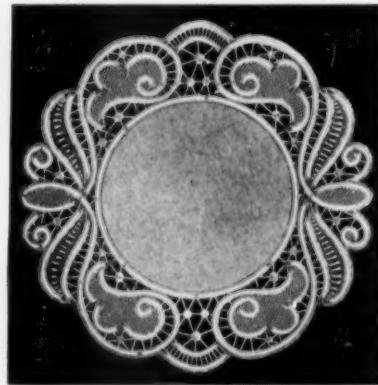

No. 513—MARIE ANTOINETTE LACE CAPE made of Duchesse Braid. Pattern stamped on cambric 25 cents. Pattern and material for working $1.80.

Then there is something entirely new in lace handkerchiefs that will make a most attractive Christmas present, a delightful centerpiece of Tenerife wheels and guipure lace braid and a cushion cover that also come under the head of handsome Christmas gifts sure to be appreciated by any woman.

IT is much safer to send ten cents additional with every Fancy Work Order to pay for Lung exercises in breathing are the best cure for excessive stoutness. The best time for this is before dressing in the morning and after undressing at night. Five or ten minutes' exercise every day will reduce the flesh in a wonderfully short time. Stand erect, with the head and chin well up, and rise upon the toes at each inspiration, holding the breath a moment then expelling it forcibly and completely.

Sensible Suggestions

ALL women can learn to use their bodies gracefully, even if there is a predisposition to stoutness. Stout women are acknowledged to be the lightest dancers, and there is no reason why they should not be graceful in pose and motion. If a woman draws her breath freely from the bottom of her lungs, she diminishes the effect of her size immediately by doing away with that ready-to-burst look that is generally associated with stoutness. That is the look that must be avoided, even if the waist measures an inch or so more, and the bust and shoulders gain a little.

It has been discovered that a double chin can be banished by correct breathing. The woman with a short neck must hold her head high, even stretching her neck until conscious of the tension of the cords. She should also practise dropping her head and letting it roll listlessly about. This will give a graceful poise to the head, and the exercise of muscles will help to consume the extra amount of fat.

No. 517—LACE HANDKERCHIEF, 12x12 inches. This is the very latest creation in lace Handkerchiefs and is edged with an insertion of fine net worked with Renaissance lace made with fine Duchesse braid. Pattern stamped on cambric 15 cents. Pattern and material, including net and linen for center $1.25.

No. 512—TENERIFE CENTERPIECE, 22x22 inches, made with guipure lace braid and ready-made Tenerife wheels. Pattern stamped on cambric 20 cents. Pattern, braid, Tenerife wheels, thread and imported linen for center $1.90.

An Apple Party

A NOVEL entertainment is an Apple Party.

The guests at such a party are expected to wear some adornment of an apple character. At the one attended by the writer every gentleman wore a crab-apple as a buttonhole bouquet. A rosy young miss had strings of dried apples festooned about her, while big, red nonesuch and baldwin apples were very much in evidence as waist adornments.

Each guest, on entering, was given a card bearing a letter and a number. The letter was one in a brand of apples and the number referred to the brand. For instance, pippins were numbered 3, seek-no-fathers, 5, etc. Of course, in group 3 were six persons, one for each letter in the word "pippin," while in the fifth group were fourteen persons. Each group was provided with one pencil and one sheet of paper, was assigned to a particular corner of the room and told to write a poem on its particular kind of apple. At the end of fifteen minutes the poems were collected and read aloud, and a committee, previously appointed, decided upon their merits. The group producing the best poem was presented with a basket of assorted apples, which were immediately passed around and eaten.

Then came an apple gathering contest resembling a potato race, in which twelve apples were arranged in two rows at regular distances from each other, and the company divided itself into two sides. One person at a time from each side, armed with a tablespoon, tried to pick up his six apples in his spoon, carry each, as spooned, to the basket at the head of the row and return for another. The side which scored the most winners beat.

The literary part of the entertainment, which followed this, consisted of readings, recitations, songs, all of which treated of the subject of apples. These were both selected and original. Among them were Bryant's "Planting of the Apple Tree," "The High-Top Sweeting," by Elizabeth Akers, selections from Holland's "Bittersweet," and "The School Boy's Apple Tree," by Hezekiah Butterworth.

By this time appetizing odors were creeping in from the kitchen, and soon we were called out to supper, in which the apple scheme was still carried out.

Lamb chops, with which were served hot rolls and apple butter, fried apples, apple fritters, and apple sauce, were followed by Waldorf salad, which, as everybody knows, is largely composed of chopped apples. Then came a course of baked apples and cream, followed by an immense pan-dowdy.

Apple pie and turnovers and tarts of pastry filled with sparkling crab-apple jelly followed, and then was brought on a snow pudding, which is a kind of glorified apple custard overtopped with a quaking mound of whipped cream. Nuts, apples, and coffee wound up the feast.—Modern Priscilla.

OUR HANDSOME SAMPLE CASE (WORTH $2) ABSOLUTELY FREE

YOU CAN MAKE $3.00 TO $6.00 A DAY

Here is an opportunity to enter a first-class business without investing any capital at all. We have started hundreds of men and women in this line, and everyone of them succeeds. Our customers are mostly middle class people, securing some of our valuable premiums. From the records of our representatives we know that any person who is willing to work can easily build up a steady trade that will yield them a handsome income the very first month. You can easily increase your income by increasing your trade all the time, and you can easily make $1,000 to $1,500 a year after you once get a trade established, and this can readily be done with the class of goods which we supply, as they are sold at the same prices as the other articles, but are much higher priced. Soaps, Perfumes, Toilet Articles, Baking Powder, Flavoring Extracts, etc., are something that every family uses all the time, and it is consequently an easy matter to take orders for such goods. This is a fact, and you know it from the experience of our agents, who write us that it is a very easy matter to secure orders when they show our samples. You do not have to send us one cent for it.

AN HONEST OFFER

We do not make any absurd claims, such as are sent out by some firms, and we do not claim that we have the best proposition ever made to any agent (man or woman), and that you can make more money at this business than any other line you could take hold of. Our goods are of the highest quality, and a fair agent can easily make $3.00 to $6.00 a day. The prompt answer of this offer will bring to you our Sample Case, Hand-somely Illustrated Catalogue, all of our descriptive circulars and complete directions for taking the orders, together with testimonials from thousands of people in almost every section of the country, showing how big wages or some of our relatives are getting by spending only a few hours showing our samples. You can do as easily as anyone else. There is no doubt about it. Failure with our goods is simply impossible. Customers are always well pleased, and you can quickly build up a large trade.

DON'T FAIL TO READ THESE LETTERS

Kent, Ohio, March 20, 1892
BULLOCK, WARD & CO. Gentlemen.—I have received several inquiries concerning your products. To tell the truth, I have not been honest in all your dealings with me. Your goods are better than offered by any other pre-private house I know of. One of my most intimate friends, Mr. J. E. Evans, told me himself that he had been buying from you for the past year. I got him to buy Soap C. and I for you. My fourth is far finer now, and has been so ever since I got it. Here is your superscripted letter, Yours truly,

MISS KATHIE STRATTON, Box 426
Canaid, Ohio, April 26, 1892

BULLOCK, WARD & CO. Dear Sirs.—I am sending you my folding bed in good condition. Am more than pleased with it. Thank you ever and ever for my fern and silver.

Yours faithfully, MRS. W. B. RIEDERMAN,
Box 426, South and Webster Sts.

BULLOCK, WARD & CO., Chicago, Ill. N.Y. I am sending you my folding bed, but nothing like what I did receive. It is exactly worth as much as the total amount of goods I sold. I cannot see how you can do it, but as you say, that is the way.

Yours truly, J. E. EVANS, 301 Marion Ave.

The Baddest Boy

It's hard to always just obey,
And if you tear your clo's
To hear your angry parents say:
"That's how the money goes."
It seems as though I'm all the time
Provokin' ma or pa.
And every day they tell me I'm
The baddest boy they ever saw.
I'm sorry when I've run away—
But boys don't think, you know,
About the things their folks'll say
Before they start to go.
I wonder, when I die some time,
And leave my ma and pa,
If God'll sadly tell me I'm
The baddest boy He ever saw?

Baby's Bath

PUTTING HIM IN.—Should baby be frightened at being plunged into the bath, try placing him in the empty tub seated on a dry towel, then gently pour the water in—it usually succeeds in pleasing him.

SOAP AND CLOTH.—A baby's skin is very delicate, so only a pure unscented soap should be used on it. Genuine castile, or the best quality of tar soap are unequalled for this purpose. A soft piece of linen damask makes the best wash cloth and it should be strictly kept for this purpose alone, and must be well aired and dried each time after being used.

DRYING.—Dry the baby carefully, especially in all the creases. Avoid using much powder. A little lightly shaken on absorbs any moisture inadvertently left after drying, but too much merely makes uncomfortable ridges, and chafes the tender flesh. A flannel blanket or apron should be used to wrap the baby in while drying him, as if his wet body is exposed to the air too rapid evaporation may cause him to take cold. When thoroughly dry, bundled up in the apron, his mouth should be carefully and gently washed out in cool water, using an immaculately clean piece of linen or muslin for the purpose.

MOUTH WASH.—A little borax must be dissolved in the water, as it will keep the mouth sweet and prevent canker or thrush.

DRESSING.—In dressing baby, one must remember to work with "neatness and dispatch." Too long fussing tires the child, and renders him fretful. Always put woolen next a baby's skin, both summer and winter. When wet by perspiration, it evaporates quickly and becomes dry again.

Becoming Colors

NOT one woman in ten realizes the importance of ascertaining and making a careful study of the one particular color most becoming to her, and of always having a touch of it introduced in some part of her dress.

The auburn-haired woman looks best in brown, shading into the tones of her hair, or in rich dark greens.

The yellow-haired girl can wear red. The greens, too, are delightful on her; also certain yellows and black. White is less becoming, but she must be brilliant in complexion or else most delicate as to tints to wear grays and blues to advantage. Blues, particularly the pale and cold blues are best adapted to brunettes.

The woman whose hair is a dull brown, and whose complexion and eyes lack brilliancy, may still be most attractive, but she should avoid bright-hued or glittering hats. Dull browns, neither yellowish nor reddish, should be selected. Avoid the satin straws. Take the dull finish.

All About the Language of the Eyes

HERE is a wonderful fascination about the girl who knows how to use her eyes. She knows how to look at a man in the right manner, and that one fact alone is sufficient to bring scores of admirers to her feet, while prettier girls wonder "what men can see in her." No matter how pretty a girl may be, and how large, dark, or light her eyes are, these charms will amount to little or nothing, and cause no admiration whatever, unless she knows how to use them.

A girl who has large round eyes, and who understands the use to which these can be put, is the girl who knows how to look at a man as he should be looked at, and in a manner which he likes. She possesses the art of being able to stare at him without appearing to stare, and it is this little charm which makes her so attractive in a man's eyes. She will look at him full in the face, not in the eyes, and by the time she has lowered her eyes again they will have done their work.

Looking a person full in the face is a fine art. If done well, it is one of the most effective weapons a woman possesses. A girl who is able to lift a pair of deep beautiful eyes to a man's face in a proper manner asks him a question, or they express interrogation ever so mildly, without speech. She does not need to ask any questions, her eyes doing their own querying. The art of looking at a man in the face lies in looking at the entire face all in one kindly sweep. Do not look right into his eyes, as that is somewhat disconcerting. There is nothing quite so disagreeable as having a person looking you right in the eyes, and to those whose nerves are weak it is positively trying. Never try to look into the pupils of a man's eyes, or into the eye itself. Again, never lean forward and look a person full in the face, or open your eyes widely in a stare when talking to anyone.

Expression of the eyes is a thing which every girl should cultivate, but at the same time she should learn how to conceal as well as show, especially if her eyes be somewhat small. It is only the minority of girls who possess large beautiful eyes which, when uplifted to a man's face, work such havoc with his heart and mind. But the girl whose eyes cannot be called pretty, on account of their color or size, can still make them attractive by correct management.

The girl whose eyes are small must learn to use them effectively. If they are of the little winking sort, she must study how to control the nerves of the lids so that she need not wink so desperately nor so often. She must strengthen her eyes by lotions, and she must get them so that they wink only in a normal manner.

The girl with little eyes should learn how to lower them effectively. She should learn how to flash them just a little, and how to look out of what has been described as the tail of the eye. But the girl with small eyes should not try to languish with them. She should remember that her eyes are not beautiful to look upon, and that when she sits in a dreamy gaze the sight is not an inspiring one.

It is necessary that the girl who desires to use her eyes properly, and to the best advantage, must also know how to use her head. She must practise the bewitching trick of lifting the head until she looks at the person to whom she may be talking, not in a slanting way, but with level eyes. As a matter of fact, the level look is much prettier than the habit of lifting the eyes, for there are few sets of eyes pretty enough to stand being lifted.

Is it possible to enlarge the eyes by any safe method? is a question which one often hears asked. The only method to be recommended is that of reducing the flesh of the face, and making natural shadows beneath the eyes. There is no doubt that the eyelids and eyebrows do fatten with the rest of the face, and consequently, as the cheeks become thinner, and the flesh reduced, the eyes become more hollow and appear larger.

GRACEFUL manners are the outward form of refinement in the mind and good affections in the heart.

BOTH FEEL

What Proper Food Does for Both Mind and Body

PHYSICAL health, mental health, indeed almost everything good on this earth depend in great measure upon proper food.

Without health nothing is worth while and health can be won almost every time by proper feeding on the scientific food Grape-Nuts.

A California trained nurse proved this: "Three years ago I was taken very sick, my work as a trained nurse having worn me out both in body and mind, and medicine failed to relieve me at all. After seeing a number of physicians and specialists and getting no relief I was very much discouraged and felt that I would die of general nervous and physical collapse.

"My condition was so bad I never imagined food would help me but on the advice of a friend I tried Grape-Nuts. The first package brought me so much relief that I quit the medicines and used Grape-Nuts steadily three times a day. The result was that within 6 months I had so completely regained my strength and health that I was back nursing again and I feel the improvement in my brain power just as plainly as I do in physical strength.

"After my own wonderful experience with Grape-Nuts I have recommended it to my patients with splendid success and it has worked wonders in the cases of many invalids whom I have attended professionally." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book "The Road to Wellville."

BUST and HIPS

Every woman who makes her own dresses or shirt waists knows how difficult it is to obtain a good fit by the usual "trying on" method, with herself for the model and a looking glass with which to see how it fits at the back.

THE PERFECTION ADJUSTABLE FORM

is designed for the purpose of doing away with all such discomforts and disappointments, and for rendering the work of dressmaking easy and satisfactory. This form can be set in correct proportions to fifty different shapes and sizes, also made longer and shorter at the waist line, so that it can be changed to suit any member of the family, also raised and lowered to any desired height. Cannot get out of order and will last a lifetime.

"Cross Purposes"

"Do you know," he continued, after a little while, "I should be very grateful if you would make me a cup of tea."

The tea was duly made, and Harold insisted on Marion partaking of a cup as well, and after she had gone he recalled with pleasure her quick graceful movements as she set about preparing that tea. To a man accustomed to performing such offices for himself there is nothing more grateful nor comforting than the sight of a sympathetic woman performing these simple domestic duties which he so clumsily performs for himself.

From that day a deeper feeling seemed to have been called to life, and they were no longer sculptor and model but close friends. After work was finished he would escort her home, and, unconsciously, their footsteps would lag, and Marion often found that she was returning home by quite a circuitous route.

One evening, when the statue was drawing towards completion, they set out for a quiet stroll and discussed with eager anxiety the probable verdict of the millionaire.

"My future prospects depend on whether I am successful or not, Marion (they had got to calling one another by their Christian names) and if he is pleased with it my name will begin to get known and I shall get other work to do."

"Oh, Harold! it is splendid; and I do not doubt that you will soon become famous. And fame will lead to many friends and riches for you."

The last sentence was said with a little catch in her voice.

Harold turned to her.

"Marion, dearest," he said; "my success will be due to you. Will you promise now to share my future with me, for without you it will be valueless to me?"

She was silent. It was dark, and the road was deserted. His arm crept round her waist. She looked up, and her lips met his—descending to meet them.

And so their love story was told.

FATHER—What do you mean, my son? Your teacher a nuisance? What talk!

Theobald—Well, that's what you call me when I ask questions, an' teacher does nothin' else.

The Bachelor Girl

HERE'S to the Bachelor Girl
Who fain her charms would cloister,
She is a precious pearl

That will not leave the oyster,
She is a proud sweet pea

That scorns to be a vine,
And lean upon a tree

Or round a stick entwine.

"What! lean upon a stick!

Oh, no! I'm not that sort—

I will grow branches thick

And be my own support!"

Beware, O pearl of price,

Lest you be cast to swine;

O proud sweet pea, think twice

Ere you refuse to twine!

O Bachelor Girl, we drink

Confusion to your plan;

Beware, lest Fate shall link

You to a Spinster Man!

O change, ere 'tis too late

The choker tall and silly,

The tweeds—the hat we hate,

For something soft and frilly!

Take off the stockings blue,

(We will avert our gaze),

Then will we drink to you

Long life—and happy days!

Advice in Brief

DRINK plenty of pure cold water between meals if you want a clear skin.

The little white spots appear on the finger-nails usually indicate a weak state of general health. Almond oil is a food for the flesh. If rubbed into the neck and chest at night it acts as a developer.

Finger-nails can be strengthened by rubbing vaseline into them every night, and manicuring once a week.

The very up-to-date girl has a sofa-square of white canvas. She invites all her admirers to write their names thereon, and she embroiders them in with coarse linen.

Do not forget that the same blood that nourishes the muscles also feeds the nerves; so when developing physical strength you are strengthening the nervous system.

If the roots of the hair are dead, nothing will make the hair grow. Sometimes the hair falls out while the roots are alive, in which case a little common salad-oil acts as a stimulant.

In endeavoring to secure the good and to avoid the evil in this world, few qualities are of more value than perseverance.

COULDN'T FOOL HIM*Doctor Was Firm and Was Right

MANY doctors forbid their patients to drink coffee but the patients still drink it on the sly and thus spoil all the doctor's efforts and keep themselves sick. Sometimes the doctor makes sure that the patient is not drinking coffee and there was a case of that kind in St. Paul where a business man said:

"After a very severe illness last winter which almost caused my death the doctor said Postum Food Coffee was the only thing that I could drink and he just made me quit coffee and drink Postum. My illness was caused by indigestion from the use of tea and coffee."

"The state of my stomach was so bad that it became terribly inflamed and finally resulted in a rupture. I had not drank Postum very long before my lost blood was restored and my stomach was well and strong and I have now been using Postum for almost a year. When I got up from bed after my illness I weighed 98 pounds and now my weight is 120."

"There is no doubt that Postum was the reason for this wonderful improvement and I shall never go back to tea or coffee but shall always stick to the food drink that brought me back to health and strength." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

To Reduce Stoutness

REDUCE fat by improving the general health: exercise the muscular tissues of the body rather than change to a radical diet. Strengthen the muscular tissues by increasing the meat foods. Keep the blood in good normal condition by cutting from the diet all sweets, severe acids, bulk foods, wines, alcoholic and malt liquors. Use sufficient pure, cool water to give free action to the skin and kidneys. Eat sufficient food, but only twice a day. Do not nibble between meals.

Christmas at the Cape

IT is the Kaffirs, the real Africans, who most keenly enjoy themselves at Cape Town on Christmas Day. They seem to claim it as their own, their faces are wreathed in smiles from morning till night; they expect gifts from everyone with whom they have the slightest acquaintance, and "Melly Klismus, Baas!" is their greeting not only on the day itself, but during all the succeeding week. Whenever a number of them are congregated great festivities take place, sometimes extending to the last hour of the year. They dance and sing, feast and drink, get married, fight, and generally enjoy themselves, and make the most of the softened feelings of their masters. On the mines a free dinner, with an extra allowance of meat, is given to them by the owners, and as all the various tribes are represented, and a war dance is one of the features of the day, it generally ends with imprisonment for some, even if blood has not been shed. In their own kraals grand performances take place, too. Visitors come from the neighborhood to see the dancing, and they all array themselves in gorgeous and wonderful raiment, the men with feathers waving above their heads, and wearing their most gaily-embroidered blankets, the women with all their brass jewelry and bead finery, in honor of the occasion.

In the country districts some of the Dutch farmers invite all the neighbors for miles around to dance, and as there is seldom a room large enough in the house, a sail is spread on the veldt, and well stretched and fastened down, forms a capital floor. Girls will travel the whole day to be present at a dance, so passionately fond are the Dutch of this amusement, and no band ever seems to keep such excellent time or be quite so satisfactory as a concertina and violin to a Dutch girl who has never danced to any other instruments all her life. Christmas day is one of the quarterly "Nacht-maals," or Communion services, always regularly attended by the Boers, who make them the occasion for all the weddings and christenings, so that there is usually double cause for rejoicing at this time. And as the whole week is made a holiday in most places, it is the annual outing for the great majority. The weather is perfect, the fruit just ripening; sometimes when the preceding months have been unusually hot, it is the height of the fruit season, and the nights are so clear and warm that it is no hardship to sleep out of doors.

Toilet Hints

FOR BLACKHEADS.—Dissolve 20z. of rose-water, alcohol and glycerine, one teaspoonful of borax. Bathe the face with this night and morning. Then rub in a little of this mixture: 4dr. of soft soap, 1oz. of rectified spirits of wine, 1dr. of spirits of lavender. Persevere with this, and the blackheads will disappear.

WARTS.—Warts frequently come on children's hands, and are ugly to look upon. They may be removed by rubbing them every few days with strong acetic acid. A simpler method is to let the child moisten the wart with the saliva of the mouth, the first thing on waking in the morning.

A PREVENTIVE FOR CORNS.—At the first sign of a corn or bunion, the feet should be bathed every morning in cold or warm water to which a little alum or vinegar has been added. This is a soothing bath also for swollen feet, and leaves a nice sensation of freshness. Feet that are inclined to corns or bunions should be sponged at night with lavender water or very slightly diluted with vinegar. People who suffer from weak ankles should put plenty of salt in the water in which they bathe their feet, and should use the water cold.

Complexion Don'ts

DON'T be afraid of sunshine. Curative powers are in the chemical rays of the sun, and they give youth.

Don't think of the complexion only, and fear tan and freckles; they can be removed. The sun is one of the most efficient of all surgical methods in the treatment of morbid growths, as warts, moles, and all parasitical skin diseases.

Don't use borax and rosewater to remove tan and freckles without putting on a little cold cream afterwards, for borax makes the skin dry.

Don't use soap on the face oftener than once a day. Night is the best time for a thorough cleansing.

Don't use cold water when giving the face a cosmetic scrub. Warm water, followed by a dash of cold water, is better.

Don't try to put cold cream on the cold skin, or the absorption will not be thorough.

Don't despise the humble lemon. The juice of a lemon and the beaten white of an egg applied to freckles with a brush will remove them.

Don't forget that vinegar will eradicate yellow stains from the face. Bathe the bruise at once with vinegar, and discoloration will be prevented.

Don't have a shiny nose or forehead. Use a little cologne or spirits of camphor in the water when bathing the face.

Dont wash your face in cold water the moment you reach the wash stand, if you have been traveling. Remove traces of dust and smoke with cold cream, and wipe off with a soft towel.

Jewel Hints

PEOPLE who have jewels should remember that if turquoises are wet they are apt to lose color. Pearls should be exposed to light and air as much as possible, but not to damp. Opals must never be exposed to great heat, or they may crack and fall from their setting; don't forget this when warming your hands at the fire if you happen to wear an opal ring.

The Christmas Dinner

powdered sugar. Put back in the oven until the crumbs are brown. Serve cold.

CELERY SALAD.—This consists simply of celery cut up into small square cubes, spread on lettuce leaves and covered with a thick mayonnaise dressing.

A REAL ENGLISH PLUM PUDDING.—Stone carefully one pound of the best raisins, wash and pick one pound of currants, chop very small one pound of fresh beef suet, blanch and chop small or pound two ounces of sweet almonds and one ounce of bitter ones; mix the whole well together, with one pound of sifted flour, and the same weight of crumbs of bread soaked in milk, then squeezed dry and stirred with a spoon until reduced to a mash, before it is mixed with the flour. Cut in small pieces two ounces each of preserved citron, orange and lemon-peel, and add a quarter of an ounce of mixed spice; quarter of a pound of moist sugar should be put into a basin, with eight eggs, and well beaten together with a three-pronged fork; stir this with the pudding, and make it of a proper consistency with milk. Remember that it must not be made too thin, or the fruit will sink to the bottom, but be made to the consistency of a good thick batter. Two wineglassesfuls of brandy should be poured over the fruit and spice, mix together in a bowl, and allowed to stand three or four hours before the pudding is made, stirring them occasionally. It must be tied in a cloth, and will take five hours of constant boiling. When done, turn it out on a dish, sift loaf-sugar over the top, and serve it with wine-sauce in a boat, and some poured around the pudding.

The pudding will be of considerable size, but half the quantity of materials, used in the same proportion, will be equally good.

CAFE PARFAIT.—Take one pint of thick cream, beat it until it is whipped stiffly. Sweeten with powdered sugar and add one-half cup of very strong coffee. Put in the pail of the ice-cream freezer. Pack in salt and ice and let stand for four or five hours, stirring it occasionally with a spoon. Don't turn the freezer. Serve in tall glasses with a spoonful of whipped cream on top of each.

VELVET CREAM.—Take half an ounce of gelatine and dissolve this in a cup and one-half of cooking sherry or any good wine. Soak the gelatine half an hour in the wine and then put it on the back of the stove in a porcelain or agate kettle and add three-quarters of a pound of granulated sugar and the grated rind of one lemon. Remove from the fire as soon as dissolved and strain. When about lukewarm add a pint and a half of rich cream stirring it gently so that the custard may not separate. Pour in a mould and set on ice. This makes a large dish full.

Scott's Perfect Form-Fitting Invisible Bustles and Hip Forms

99 figures out of every 100 have a marked depression at the middle of back or flatness of the hips, and it is this deficiency that causes ill fitting skirts so generally seen.

The Remedy is one of Scott's Perfect Form-Fitting Invisible Bustles and Hip Forms.

They are not an old time bustle, but an up-to-date article, made to conform to the natural lines of the body, adding grace and symmetry to the figure and allowing the skirt to hang in graceful folds.

It is FORM-FITTING, INVISIBLE, REVERSIBLE, LIGHT IN WEIGHT and VENTILATED. It is made of sterilized material, in a variety of colors and in seven different sizes, to meet the requirements of all figures.

It may be worn over the corset to produce short waist effect and under the corset for long waist effect.

Leading Bustles and Ladies' Tailors hail its advent with delight, giving it unstinted praise and pronounce it a necessary adjunct to every lady's wardrobe.

Ambition

"Vanity of vanities, saith the preacher; all is vanity."—Ecclesiastes; xii., 8.

AMBITION is a circle where men run,
Each hoping he the leading place may find.
Each backward glance shows him the winning one:

Each forward look tells him he is behind.
He quaffs betimes the red wine of success,
And then aside he casts the empty cup—
Another round, and in his eagerness
That which he flung away he would take up.
Ambition is a circle where men run,
Each fancying himself may hold the lead—
A race with prized guerdon never won;
Where no one is contented with his meed;
Where men go striving ceaselessly the round,
And think at last their efforts are complete,
When, following, they hear the warning sound—
The falling of a nearing rival's feet.

W. D. Nesbit in Chicago Tribune.

Home Remedies

TO CURE A COLD.—An excellent remedy that the Germans use for curing a cold is the yolk of an egg beaten in a pint of water, a little butter, three lumps of sugar, and a tablespoonful of whisky. When it begins to boil pour it back and forth from one saucepan to another until smooth and frothy; allow it to cool, then take a teaspoonful every half-hour.

EATING WHEN TIRED.—Everyone should know that to eat when tired is to place upon the digestive organs a burden which they are wholly unable to bear. When the body is in a state of fatigue the digestive organs are unable to perform their natural functions; the glands of the stomach will not form gastric juice; the saliva is deficient in quantity, and the whole digestive apparatus is incapable of doing efficient work. When exhausted one should rest before eating. If a faint or sinking sensation is experienced, relief may be obtained by drinking a glass of hot water or diluted fruit juice of some kind.

OPEN WINDOWS.—Stuffy bedrooms are responsible for more cases of anemia and early consumption than is generally believed. Windows should be opened wide, top and bottom, and now is the best season of the year to commence this practise. By the time winter comes there will be no danger in leaving the windows open, for the sleeper will have got used to the fresh air.

BRITTLE NAILS.—If the nails are brittle and dry, rub a little vaseline over them each night.

FOR A HEADACHE.—An excellent remedy for this is to add a teaspoonful of good toilet vinegar to a pint of very hot water. Wring a cloth out of this, fold so that it will lie on the forehead, and apply as hot as can be borne, changing often.

TEMPTING INVALIDS.—An invalid unable to take more than a small amount of nourishment may sometimes relish a cup of coffee poured boiling hot upon the beaten yolk of an egg; or the yolk may be beaten in a cup, seasoned with salt and pepper, and boiling water added to form a broth. This, served with one or two crisp crackers or wafers, makes an agreeable relish.

THE SMELL OF NEW PAINT.—To get rid of a bad smell in a room newly painted, place a vessel full of lighted charcoal in the middle of the room, and throw on it two or three handfuls of juniper berries; shut the windows, the chimney, and the door close; twenty-four hours afterwards the room may be opened, when it will be found that the sickly unwholesome smell will be entirely gone. The smoke of the juniper berry possesses this advantage, that should anything be left in the room it will not be spoilt.

wife, but, sir, I love her with all my heart and soul, and that must be my excuse."

"Come, come," cried Desparde, "we are having quite an old-fashioned dime novel sort of scene, and it does not appeal to me in the least. Let us settle this matter one way or the other."

"It is settled already," replied the young fellow in a low, husky tone. "Gladys, my darling, good-bye."

From the distant drawing-room there floated the sounds of "Love's Golden Dream," played by one of the guests. The tears filled Gladys' eyes, for the melody recalled to her a certain night when she had met Dick Harbord, and had enjoyed a certain never-to-be-forgotten waltz. It seemed to her now that the "golden dream" was indeed ended, and that naught remained but the dust and ashes of a hope that once had been.

"Dick," she said softly, "I can't give you up—I can't."

He took her hand and held it tight, whilst Mr. Desparde turned away his head.

"You must," he whispered. "It is for your good, and you will soon forget."

"Never, never," she moaned. And, then turning from her sweetheart, she caught her father's hand and cried, imploringly: "Dad, dad, it will break my heart if I send Dick away! Say that he may remain."

"I cannot, Gladys, I cannot."

"You cannot?"

"No. I have a duty to perform—a duty which I owe to you, and I must carry it out, no matter how painful it may be. Mr. Harbord will always be welcomed here as a guest, but from this night onwards he must be no more to you than an ordinary acquaintance."

There was a long, long pause. Dick's face was rigid with suffering, and Gladys was in tears. It seemed to both young lovers that they had reached the most miserable moment of their lives, and despair seized them in an iron grip. Mr. Desparde remained with averted head, longing for the scene to conclude.

"Rat-tat-tat!" The knock resounded through the great house, and a moment later there came a tap at the door, and a servant entered carrying a salver.

"A letter for you, Miss," she said, as she approached Gladys, who took the missive with mechanical fingers.

Opening the envelope the girl scanned the written words with listless eyes, until of a sudden there came a wondrous flush upon her cheek, and a cry of joy left her lips.

"O, Dick! Dick! Dick!" she exclaimed, "It seems too good to be true."

Then bestowing a merry smile upon her thunder-stricken father and equally amazed sweetheart, Gladys read as follows:

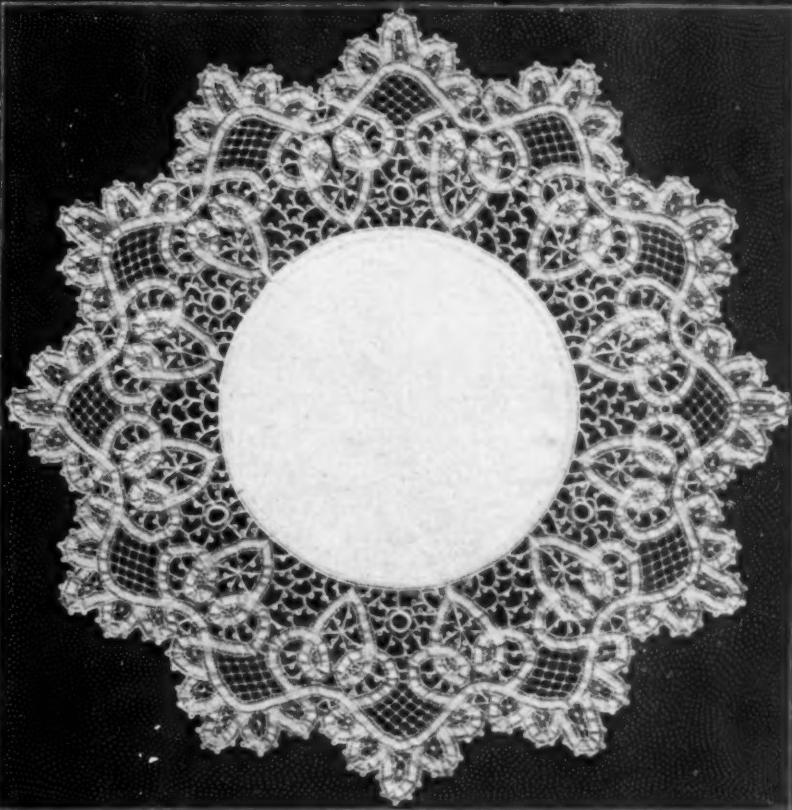

"Hotel Metropole,"

"Christmas Eve.

"MY DEAR MISS DESPARDE—I have discovered your secret, and am not sorry to know the truth, for it will prevent me causing you further annoyance. I know now that you love another man, about half my age, and one who will doubtless make you a far better husband than I should have done, though I honestly believe that no human being could have offered you deeper and truer affection.

"However, let that pass. I am leaving New York for my own home in California in a few days, and it is very unlikely that you and I will meet again. At this festive season of the year, it is customary to offer gifts to one's friends, and the gift I am going to bestow upon you, and one in whom you are interested, will take the form of a farewell present as well as a Christmas offering. In other words, let me explain that I have instructed my lawyers to purchase a junior partnership in the firm of Messrs. Girdlestone & Bright, and the deed of partnership is to be made out in favor of Richard Harbord, Esq., a young gentleman whom I fancy you know.

CONSUMERS CGE. & MANUFACTURING CO.

225 S. Desplaines Street, CHICAGO, Ill.

"May you both be very, very happy, and in saying good-bye, let me wish you a very cheery Christmas and a happy New Year.

"God bless you.

"RODERICK CAVANAGH.

"P.S.—If you wish to know how I overheard your conversation with young Harbord on the telephone, you must ask the 'Central' people; but I guess that the wires happened to get connected, so that I, in my office, was privileged to listen to all that passed between you. Thank Mr. Harbord for calling me the 'bald-headed Johnnie with the good-natured face.' For once in a way, you see, a 'listener' heard some good of himself. Adieu!"

* * * * *

There was a pause. Gladys' eyes were wet with tears once more, but they were tears of joy.

Mr. Desparde rose from the chair into which he had subsided, and patted Harbord on the shoulder.

"I withdraw my refusal, my lad," he said cheerily. "I told Gladys that if you obtained the partnership I would give my consent to the engagement. Now I will leave you two young people to discuss the situation."

He vanished from the room with a smile. Dick took his sweetheart in his arms and pressed her to his breast.

"I think we shall have a jolly Christmas after all," he said.

"I am quite sure of it," replied Gladys softly.

And their prediction proved accurate, for the whole face of matters had been changed for Dick Harbord and his faithful sweetheart on that Christmas Eve by Mr. Cavanagh's timely "contribution."

Mere Conjecture

"HAVE you ever known any one," she asked, "who was actually killed by happiness?"

A Mother's Song

SLUMBER, my little one, slumber,
Soft sighs the wind through the trees;
Red glows the west, love,
Birds seek their nest, love,
Lull'd by the whispering breeze.

Slumber my pretty one, slumber,
Evening descends o'er the deep;
All now is still, love,
On dale and hill, love,
Nature has fallen asleep.

Slumber, my gentle one, slumber,
Rock'd on the dream-tide of sleep;
Sail with the day, love,
Far, far away, love,
Safe in thy fond mother's keep.

Slumber, my darling one, slumber,
Tired with thy laughter and play;
Sleep now and rest, love,
Here on my breast, love,
Wake not till night turns to day.

L. B. DURRANT.

Household Hints

WHEN BAKING PIES or tarts don't stand them on the top of the hot stove after they are done, as that makes the pastry soft and sodden.

A SHABBY BEDSTEAD.—Rubbing with a cloth dipped in paraffin will not only clean but also greatly improve the appearance of a shabby black iron bedstead.

TO WASH SILK STOCKINGS.—Silk stockings, colored or black, should never be washed with soap. Warm bran water should be used, and the stocking should be squeezed, not wrung, and dried in the shade.

SILK HANDKERCHIFFS.—To obtain a gloss equal to new on white silk handkerchiefs, after washing them and well rinsing, put them into water containing a little methylated spirit—one teaspoonful of the spirit to a pint of water, and then iron. A beautiful gloss will be obtained.

THE BEST WAY TO SEW ON A BUTTON.—Place the button on the material, laying a pin crossways over the holes. Sew over the pin from side to side with strong thread; then remove the pin, and the button will give slightly. Wind the thread a few times round under the button, and finish off. This minimizes the strain, and there is less risk of tearing the material.

TO IMPROVE THE FLAVOR of an apple pie, sprinkle the fruit with lemon juice after it is filled into the crust, and cover with tiny pieces of butter, then add the sugar and nutmeg or cinnamon.

TO CLEAN LINOLEUM.—Rub your linoleum with a piece of flannel soaked in paraffin. It will preserve the surface, remove all dirt and stains, and make it last much longer. Baths can be cleaned in the same way.

TO CLEAN KETTLES.—Kettles may be thoroughly cleaned by boiling a few potato peelings in them.

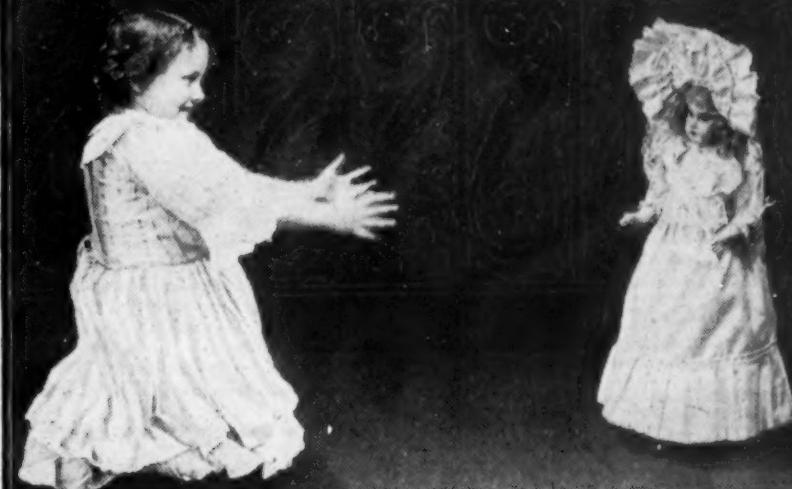

FOR SANDWICHES.—The meat for making sandwiches will go a great deal further if it is minced very fine.

TO LIGHT A FIRE.—Dry orange peel slowly in an oven, and use instead of chips; it makes an excellent fire.

TABLE-LINEN HINT.—Never put table linen that is fruit-stained into hot soapsuds; this sets and fixes the stains.

BRASS AND COPPER.—Sweet oil and putty powder, followed by soap and water, are all that could be desired to clean brass and copper.

Nothing to Suggest

My Uncle Hi's mind has an equable poise, Through seasons of drought and of raining: "In worry," he says, "we lose sight of our joys,

And we spend too much time in complaining.

If the Lord, in His wisdom, sends blessing or blight,

I'll take what He sees fit to proffer, For I'm firm in the faith that He's runnin' things right,

An' I have no suggestions to offer.

"To the Lord, when in travail, no dolorous plea

I make, for my creed's not so narrow As to think for a moment He'll loose sight of me,

When he notes e'en the fall of the sparrow. He is there on His throne, an' so just is His rule, Alike to the saint and the scoffer, I sit here at home jes' a-takin' things cool, An' I have no suggestions to offer.

"It's a mighty good world we live in to-day, For the good's all the time growin' better, An'" my Uncle Hi adds, in his comical way,

"It satisfies me to the letter!

So I jes' keep t' work in the shadow an' shine,

Bit by bit addin' gold t' my coffer, For the world's bein' steered by a hand that's divine,

An' I have no suggestions to offer."

—Success.

THE longest tunnel in the world will be the Simplon Tunnel, in the Alps. Its length, when finished, will be fourteen miles, each one of which will average a cost of nearly one million dollars. The tunnel is now about two-thirds finished and the worst difficulties have been met and overcome. The greatest of these was the ever-increasing heat in the tunnel, it being stated that at the tunnel head the temperature reached 136 degrees Fahrenheit, while outside thermometers were registering "thirty-six degrees of frost." —Four-Track News.

Rice-paper and Artificial Flowers

CHINESE rice-paper, so called, familiar to our eyes as the material on which the Japanese pictures are painted, is not made from rice at all, but from the pith of a tree, Fatsia papyrifera, which grows about twenty feet high, and furnishes pith for toy and flower-making. The "rice paper" is cut in thin sheets from the stem of the tree, and after the sheets have been pressed dry and any little holes filled up, the best are given to the artists to work upon. Smaller sheets are dyed for the flower-makers, and the refuse and scraps stuff pillows.

Chinese artificial flower fairs are among the most interesting sights of the Celestial Empire. In a certain street of Peking an exhibition of pith, paper, and silk flowers is held daily, the stalls of the flower-makers extending for over half a mile. Each maker is provided with gule, wire pincers, and some vari-colored paper, and in a few moments he will manufacture any given flower from a real model, his skill in shaping the blossoms being only equalled by his eye for accurate coloring. Like their neighbors in the Mikado's empire, the Celestials are wonderful flower-lovers, and the women, wearing no hats or bonnets, generally ornament their hair with flowers. Indeed, in some parts of China it is always shown whether the ladies are single, married, or widowed by the color of their floral adornments.

OUR present fashions are very different from what they were only a few years ago. The wasp waist, which women strove to encircle within their own ten fingers, is out of date. Waist, bust and hips must now be of their natural shape; neither too low nor too high, neither too curved nor too straight, neither too small nor too large, but in just proportion to each other. Shoulders are no longer raised to the ears. Once more they droop in all their natural beauty, and this droop is rendered doubly visible by the cape or deep collar, which now accompanies almost every bodice, jacket, or cloak which we wear. Some are round and some are pointed, like a fichu.

THE most insignificant people are the most apt to sneer at others. They are safe from reprisals, and have no hope of rising in their own esteem but by lowering their neighbors.

New Ideas in Pyrography

in the decoration. In the more subtle traceries of pyrography, the work when finished often partakes of an old ivory color, which we see in those beautiful subjects that come to us from over the water, in noticeable pieces of workmanship as jewel boxes, miniature portraits, or special novelties.

The illustrations indicated are from well-chosen articles, whose original designs show the dexterity and artistic ability of the fire-etcher. The service tray with its silver-plated rim, is made of smooth, fine bass wood, - the device, one of the season's popular fads. Grapes seem to take the lead in all sorts of household accessories, and are extremely popular at this time. In contemplating a design the amateur should choose some simple subject. The sketch or drawing is first laid in with the lead pencil, taking care that the pattern is correctly copied or accurately drawn. At this time all mistakes can be eradicated by the India rubber, but once the pyrograph has done its work, it is only an expert who can cover up lines and not destroy the beauty of the plan. In drawing a grape design, the composition should be as free as possible, leaving the background to bring out the pattern of fruit and leaves by burning of rich brown tints. As a finish for the whole, a white shellac is utilized of just the right thickness, which, when thoroughly dry, the tray is ready for service. As a novel departure, many of these decoration schemes have now a background of different colorings. For those who desire this, there is a fine French stain in a coloring of mahogany-red. If properly done the combination is an exceedingly effective one, the blossoms and their leaves in their unvarnished state, presenting the appearance of old ivory, made so by the grain of fine bass wood in all its natural tones.

In the cravat-box for men, or neckwear for women, of which two different views are shown on page 246, we have a charming representation of a heraldic design. The wood selected is close and of fine fibre so as to admit of a more subtle decoration if preferred. Like in the service tray it is first laid in with the lead pencil and afterwards fire-etched, which when done has a finish of fine Japanese or Chinese shellac evenly and carefully laid on. The inside of the box can be equipped as handsomely as the outside. The cover and sides is a simple treatment of a garden flower and afterwards have a finish of white shellac, while the bottom of the box is provided with a satin pad either of brocade or in a solid color, nicely wadded and perfumed, either with violet or orris powder as preferred.

The panel shown on these pages is a design copied from one of the four elements and represents water, the artists giving any number of line ornaments in the drapery as he sees fit. The subject as in all other cases is first laid in by the lead pencil or transferred on the wood by the aid of tracing paper. The figure which is the feature of the panel is left unvarnished and for this reason partakes of an ivory tone because the wood selected is of a special yellowish quality and the grain of extra fine make. The background is laid in brown tones neither dark nor light. If a fire-etching be too dark the composition presents a crude appearance making the design an unsightly object, however charming the plan may be.

Wooden rounds fire-etched in roses, chrysanthemums, azaleas, dahlias, or any of the bolder blossoms, make pretty stands for a tea or coffee pot, or a receptacle for holding wine decanters, or a pitcher of water. They decorate any point of the board, and never fail to excite comment and admiration. Pyrography dates far back from the earliest ages. The time was when certain savage tribes decorated their every-day utensils by a few marks forming often a crude outline. Later the kitchen poker did duty as an outfit for the scheme, and now as an established decoration there are every conceivable convenience as an aid to the work.

The origin of decorative pyrography developed a century ago at the home of a London artist. The studio where he spent most of his time had a quaint oaken mantelpiece on which there was no ornamentation. One evening while sitting before the fire he thought that this expanse of wood might be improved by a slight outline in drawing, and perhaps by the aid of a red-hot poker a pretty decoration could be given that would make that part of the room a focus for the whole. After sketching a bold design of large conventional blossoms in which scroll effects and heavy lines were the artistic background, a picture presented itself that pleased him greatly. So delighted was he with the work than he began other pictures of fire-painting which not only gained a ready sale but in time he became famous. This is the beginning of what is known as pyrography, although the art in a very crude way existed centuries before.

This season grapes seem to be a favorite design, and have now had quite a long run. This design is pleasing and peculiarly attractive as a household appointment. It is considered suitable for a service tray, teapot holder or an ornament for a gentleman's dressing glass in shape of a tie box and handkerchief holder. If well sketched and the bunches of grapes are true to nature, the big green leaves prettily grouped on the surface of the white wood form an artistic plan for the cover and can be extended over the four sides making a most ornamental treatment for the whole. Panels are now greatly in favor. The four subjects, Earth, Air, Fire and Water, forming a most artistic decoration for a mantle-shelf or in the corner of the study. Of course there are experts who can combine color with fire painting, but as a rule the natural burnt tints are the finest, and the gradations of brown needs only skill to make every line tell. In shellacking a panel, the background should be evenly laid on by the brush, and if desired the figure may be left untouched. This same treatment is admirable for a frieze in which blossoms are the decorative designs showing the fine grain of white wood and giving it the appearance of ivory when done.

MRS. OLIVER BELL BUNCE.

The Marvelous System of a Great Telephone Exchange

THE average layman hazily pictures "Central," that place heard so long but not seen, as a modern edition of Babel, delivered over to jarring voices and ringing bells and general pandemonium. If he would visit a certain great exchange he would see forty-five girls at work at a switchboard handling 18,000 calls in a busy hour. Yet there is no noise louder than the hum of a swarm of bees. The wheels go round without friction; the operators are too busy for the bustling confusion of incompetency; ingenious devices have brought the eye to the ear's relief, replacing bells by a system of lamp signals. Everything makes for efficiency. An operator makes on the average ten connections a minute, with automatic accuracy. Under pressure—from a fire, a panic, a national calamity, accumulation of business after a break—she doubles this rate.—Booklovers Magazine.

I PROMISED you last month that I'd tell you how "FORCE" is made, and that I'd take you through these great Mills of mine and show you every part of the process by which I cook breakfast for two million people every morning.

Are you all ready? Let's start then:

In the first place, I use only the finest wheat that can be grown; I see to it that it is made perfectly clean to begin with, and that it is kept clean all the time it is being made, and this by means of wonderful brushes and fans, by which the grains are freed not only from every speck of dirt, but from all dust as well. The old saying that one must eat his peck of dirt during his lifetime may be true, but I have made up my mind that you shall get none of it from "FORCE." An extract of barley-malt is then prepared, in which the wheat is soaked for from five to six hours. Besides giving it a delicious flavor, this does certain things to it which only a chemist can explain, but which means that it is partly digested.

After this malting, it is cooked very carefully and exactly, better than the cook at home could do it, for the heat is regulated by thermometers and clocks so that it will not cook too quickly, too much or too little.

The wheat when it leaves the cookers, is flavored with table salt.

It next travels mechanically to the polished steel rollers, where it is "flaked." The flaking changes each grainlet into a thin disc in which form it passes to the "toasters," where it takes on the crispy form and delicate toast-brown appearance with which you are familiar.

From the toasters it passes through shutes, which operate like the old-fashioned powder-flasks, opening automatically and depositing in the waiting package just enough of the dainty flakes to fill without crushing. These packages or cartons are quickly sealed in such a manner as to render them absolutely dust-proof, and then are packed, thirty-six at a time, in the wooden boxes which your grocer can hardly get fast enough.

One hundred thousand cartons a day are packed in these mills of mine, and nowhere during its process from grain to package does "FORCE" come in contact with anybody's hands or clothing.

Wonderful, isn't it? I like to watch it.

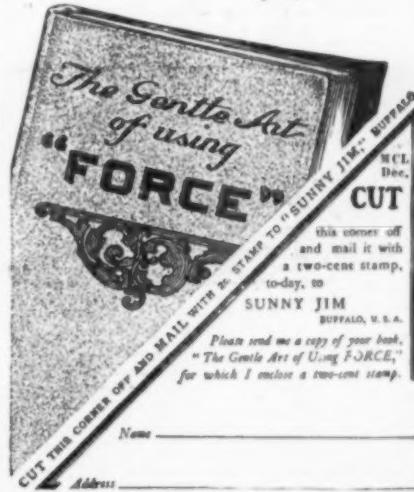

I've written a book about "FORCE" that has a good many full-page color plates, showing how to prepare new dishes that taste good and are good.

It's not all about "FORCE." It contains a recipe for being happy that is meant for everyone who isn't as happy as she would like to be—a recipe so practical that everyone can use it perfectly.

No, it's not just to "use" "FORCE"—that only helps. I mean really to be happy.

If you'll send me the coupon below, and enclose a 2-cent stamp I'll mail you a copy free. Yours truly, at front and back, then baste distributing fullness evenly, and stitch on each edge. Stitch sleeves to the single perforations and press open, and hem a facing on the parts to be left open. Interline the cuffs with crinoline, same as in peplum belt. Gather the bottom of sleeves and baste to the cuffs according to notches, and stitch by machine, then hem in a facing. Cuffs may be fastened with buttons and buttonholes or with hooks and eyes underneath. Hem in a facing of silk or material. Sleeves are gathered at top and put in the same as in gown, overcasting the seam instead of binding. Interline the collar with crinoline and clip upper edge of material before basting over crinoline. Stitch all around the collar, and pin to the waist on the doll, to get correct size and fit. Bind the left side of neck of waist and backstitch collar on right side. Sew tiny hooks and eyes at back of collar and hem in a facing. Fasten the front of waist with hooks and eyes under left side of front box pleat.

Sunny Jim

The suit may be made more dainty by leaving the peplum off, and inserting bands of lace between the tucks on skirt and waist, or by making a large lace collar either round or sailor, to run under the front box plait.

How a Woman's Face May Indicate Her Character

A CERTAIN learned man gave certain rules for the choosing of a wife, and bade young lovers beware of a girl whose lips drooped at the corners, as such would probably make a home anything but a happy place.

At the same time he advised the intending husband to remember that upward curving lips indicated frivolity, so that here, too, he would need to take care, whilst lips which are very thin and quite straight usually belong to a woman who is a shrew.

It is a merry person generally who can boast a stout upper lip with a depression under the nose and corners which tend upwards, and If the corners also dimple deeply the owner will probably be quick at repartee.

A selfish, morbid, and dominating woman frequently has a long thin mouth with clear-cut, firm lips; whilst the cruel woman as often as not boasts lips which are unusually red.

A general slackness as regards the great questions of right and wrong is at times found in the owners of mouths where the under lip is thick and rolls outward.

A large and well-closed mouth indicates sagacity, and

A chin which is firm and rounded generally goes with determination and strength.

Superfluous Hair

Removed by the New Principle
DeMiracle

It is better than electricity, because it does not scar or produce a new growth. Better than X-ray, because it does not burn or scar nor paralyze the tissues under the skin. Better than depilatories, because it is not poisonous, and does not break off the hair, thereby increasing its growth.

Electrolysis, X-ray, or depilatories are offered you on the BARE WORD of the operators and manufacturers. "DE MIRACLE" is not. It is the only method which is endorsed by physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, and medical journals.

"DE MIRACLE" will be mailed to any address, sealed in plain wrapper, on receipt of $1.00. Your money back without question (no red tape) if it fails to do all that is claimed for it.

Our booklet—the most complete treatise on Superfluous Hair ever published—containing the testimonies of the physicians and surgeons whose photographs appear here and those of hundreds of others will be sent free in plain sealed envelope upon request.

Taking Care of Plants in Winter

HERE are more plants in the home killed by injudicious watering than by any other error of treatment. Most frequently also the error is on the side of mistaken kindness in giving too little water too frequently.

The possessor of some handsome house plants, comes with the question: "How often should I water my plants?" expecting to be told once or twice a day, or at all events some stated interval. But such cannot be, and the only answer that a conscientious person can give the querist is: "as often as necessary." In other words, this means, give water so as to keep the pots wet. It is not practicable to lay down a rule that all the plants should be given water at one and the same time, each single specimen must have its own particular wants attended to, so much depending upon the situation and the general temperature of the apartment in which it is growing.

The pot in which a plant is when purchased from the florist is of a very porous nature, and therefore the condition of its surface is the best guide as to the state of the "ball" of earth and roots inside: if the pot be moist on the outside the contents will be wet enough. In rooms where furnace heat is used the difficulty of maintaining this condition is sometimes considerable, but close attention and judgment will overcome the problem and keep the plant in a flourishing condition.

When a plant is in a pot the roots are chiefly to be found at the bottom and touching the sides, they are not to any extent found near the surface soil. This being the case it will be seen very easily that merely giving a dribble of water at the top does no good, nay, indeed harm may ensue by the subsequent baking of the soil, which is followed again by surface damping for some time with the ultimate result of souring of the soil; or moss may be developed on it, leading to the impression of a general moist state, which is certainly true of the surface layer, but of that only.

The golden rule in watering is; give water only when the plant needs it, but then water thoroughly.

"How" to give the water is as important a point as "when." We advise people who have not a regular plant room where water can be applied with perfect freedom, and some allowed to splash over without fear of damaging anything—as is the case in the greenhouse of the florist—we advise that in such places (rather than run the risk of the mere surface damping just spoken of) the placing of the plants in tubs or pans with a quantity of water sufficient to mount up to within an inch or less of the rim of the pot, allowing the plant to stand there for some time, so that the water can soak through the pot and rise up through the ball of roots and earth, thus making sure that a thorough soaking is given, for when the water has soaked through it will be seen inside the pot. This treatment may in some cases of our dry, heated rooms be necessary every day.

All plants are not the same in their liking for perpetual heavy moisture or saturation of the soil. A palm or a fern, for instance, if once allowed to become dry at the roots will never recover its pristine vigor, and there, indeed, lies the whole secret of their successful culture. Some other plants with very succulent leaves are not by any means so liable to injury through absence of water, but such plants are not of decorative value. Then, again, there are other plants which demand a perpetual apparent excess of water. All these points the florist attends to in the potting up, by making a suitable mixture of soils—some to hold water a long time, others to let it pass through quickly.

All plants which are grown for their foliage

THE BURNING OF ROME!

E. T. PAULL'S MASTERPIECE—MARCH.

Without any exception whatever, the greatest descriptive march ever written, representing the following synopsis: "Dash of the Charioteers for Position," "The Race," "Finish of the Race," "Parade of the Victors," "Populace Dispersing," "Evening Song of the Christians," "Alarm of Fire," "People in Consternation," "Second Alarm," "People in Panic," "People Rushing Wildly Through the Streets," "Fire Fiercely Raging," "Crashing of Falling Walls," etc.

It is simply magnificent. We stake our entire reputation and musical ability on this piece to please. Every Student, Every Teacher, Every Piano Player in this country, should have a copy of this great piece. The title page is a work of art, the most startling and remarkable ever seen on a piece of music.

Ivers & Pond PIANOS

A PIANO FOR XMAS

Surely nothing can make a more acceptable or appropriate Xmas gift than a beautiful Ivers & Pond piano. If you will write us at once we will send you our handsome new catalogue, just off the press, containing half-tone pictures of our 1904 styles, and will also give you full information as to how one of these charming instruments can be placed in your home before Christmas, even though you live in the most distant part of the United States. Ivers & Pond pianos, from a musical and artistic standpoint, cannot be excelled. No amount of money could buy any better materials or workmanship, richer or more musical tone, or greater durability.

HOW TO BUY

If no dealer near you sells them we can supply you from Boston. An order entrusted to us will be executed with the nicest discrimination in regard to tone quality, perfection of action and beauty of case finish, that would be exercised were the piano to be for the personal use of one of our officers. The wisdom of this care on our part is obvious when we willingly ship the piano subject to approval, not asking that it be accepted unless it proves entirely satisfactory. We sell on time payments (in the most remote village or city in the United States as simply and safely as if you lived in Boston), requiring a small cash remittance at time of purchase, and balance in 12, 24 or 36 equal monthly payments. Old pianos taken in exchange. A personal letter with list of cash and time prices if you will write.

HEALY, 230 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.

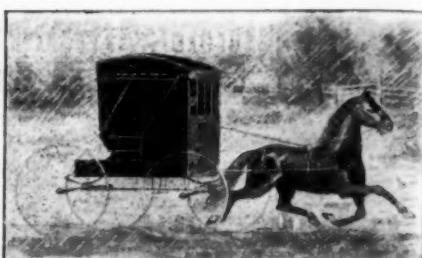

effect and which are therefore to be kept for any considerable time in the home, must receive attention at the tops as well as at the roots. In the cleanest of houses dust will accumulate and this, settling upon the leaves, blocks up the breathing pores of the plant. The only remedy is removal of the dust, to which end a sponging of clean water, at least say once a week, should be given; this moreover aids the plant in other ways, for it is natural for it to occasionally have overhead watering when at the florist's or in its home. All such plants too, are benefited by being placed out of doors during the warm weather, provided the place selected for them be a shady one. Here they may be left for a few hours after having been thoroughly syringed with clean water of a temperature about the same as that which would be drawn from the city supply. Ice cold water must not on any account be used.

An Unhappy Home

As a rule, women are more unselfish than men, but very often they lack the right kind of consideration for their husbands. They will treasure up all the cares and woriments of the day for their husbands' ears when they come home at night probably feeling weary and tired. If the husband appears unsympathetic, the wife will imagine herself a much-injured person. Then follows "the little rift in the lute" that destroys the sweet harmony of the home. The woman who makes her home happy and is always pleasing in her husband's eyes is the one who exercises those two indispensable qualities, tact and cheerfulness. Speaking mildly, the woman who "nags" has precious little loneliness in her character. Her husband deserves the greatest sympathy, for certainly the man with a "nagging" wife has an unhappy lot. A woman is only increasing her husband's faults when she is for ever depicting them to him. One sweet quality in a woman will do more good than any number of reprovals.

To Preserve Cut Flowers

A GERMAN journal recommends for the preservation of cut flowers almost indefinitely, either singly or in bouquets, that they be dipped in a solution of pure albumen, and after allowing them to become perfectly dry, that the operation be repeated several times, each time with fresh albumen. The white of an egg is nearly pure albumen.

Defy the Coldest Blizzard with a Vestibule Storm Shield

It keeps the driver warm and dry as in a closed cab. It saves the horse against the wind and stops the strain on buggy top. Fits on any buggy and looks neat and firm. The Fussy Woman

AS a rule the "fussy" woman is short of stature. She is also small, this latter fact being attributed to her unrestful, fretful disposition. Restlessness prevents the acquiring of adipose tissue. She is also usually thin-faced, and she possesses a high-priced, rather metallic voice.

The fussy woman, on meeting you on the street begins at once to overhaul you in her fussy, nervous way. You are too thinly clad; you are standing too near the curb; you should never wear such high heels, or you are working too hard or too little etc., etc.

The best way to deal with such a person is to fall in with her mood and acquiesce in all she suggests. She will then think that she has given you some valuable advice, and will say good-bye with a beaming face and a self-satisfied expression.

The fussy woman is no less tiresome to her male friends. She advises young men, and she tells them of her youthful experiences. She also suggests to a friend improvements in his toilette, asking why he wears such a high collar, etc. She then supplements her superior counsel with an invitation to call and break the monotony of his lonely life. The man who mutters to himself the very frank, though rather inelegant, "Not if I know it," means just what he says.

CHURCH-WORKERS in New England, however humble, certainly obtain due appreciation from their clergy, for a certain Yankee minister, when lately holding a farewell service, warmly invoked the Divine blessing upon every one connected with the church, and finally interceded for "the one who, although hidden from sight, yet contributes so much to the musical part of our worship," ending, "O, Lord, I mean the boy who blows the organ."

MRS. NEXTDOOR—I have found out one thing about that Mrs. Newcomer. Whoever she is, she has never moved in good society.

Mr. Nextdoor—How do you know that?

Mrs. Nextdoor—She shakes hands as if she meant it.

My Lady

SHE walks unnoticed in the street;

The casual eye

Sees nothing in her fair, or sweet;

The world goes by,

Unconscious that an angel's feet

Are passing nigh.

She little has of beauty's wealth;

Truth will allow

Only her priceless youth and health,

Her broad white brow;

Yet grows she on the heart by stealth,

I scarce know how.

She does a thousand kindly things

That no one knows;

A loving woman's heart she brings

To human woes;

And to her face the sunlight clings

Where'er she goes.

And so she walks her quiet ways

With that content

That only comes to sinless days

And innocent;

A life devoid of fame or praise,

Yet nobly spent.

Bringing Him Around

"I CAN'T get up early," said a wealthy gentleman to his doctor.

"Oh, yes, you can," was the reply, "if you will only follow my advice. What is your usual hour of rising?"

"Nine o'clock."

"Well, get up half-an-hour later every day, and in the course of a month you will find yourself up at four in the morning."—Pearson's Weekly.

PULQUE PLANT

Mexico's Popular Drink is Made from it

THE plant that produces beer and whiskey for the native Mexican is now in full bloom at South Park. A stalwart policeman who is a certified teetotaler guards it from any surreptitious tapping by thirsty tramps. It is the West Mexican pulque plant and is a species of the century plant. Prof. Cowell, the director of the botanical gardens, says it is the only one of the species that has ever flowered in cultivation as far as known.

It is a giant among plants. It stands in a large tub in front of the Albright conservatory, on top of the hill, in the west corner of the park. The plant is a huge rosette of leaves, with a single flower stem shooting up in the middle. The leaves are five or six feet long and seven or eight inches wide and of sword shape. There are 35 or 40 of these big leaves, the bunch rising to a height of six feet or so. The single flower stem that shoots up from the middle of the bunch towers thirty feet above the ground. It contains hundreds of dull green flowers that resemble lilies as to shape, but have none of the showy qualities of most of the lilies. The flowers are about four inches long. The big leaves look much like the ordinary species of the century plant seen blooming about here, except that the edges are smooth instead of being sawtooth.

The flower stem started to grow on June 1 and for three weeks it jumped up at the rate of ten inches a day.

"Could you see it grow?" repeated Prof. Cowell, in speaking about the plant to some visitors yesterday. "Why, you could hear it grow."

"How old is the plant?" was asked of the professor.

"Well, it really ought to be 100 years old, if we are to believe what we are told about the century plants," was the reply. "You know, they are supposed to bloom but once in 100 years. But this one is about twenty years old, I think. Some century plants bloom when they are about fourteen years old."

"And it will be twenty years more before this one blooms again?" asked one of the visitors, looking up at the tall structure of green.

"Oh, no, this plant will never bloom again," said the professor. "It will die this year. The plants always die after blooming."

In extracting strong drink from the pulque plant, the first operation is the cutting off of the stem close to the leaves. A depression is then scooped out of the top of the stem remaining with the plant. As fast as this pit fills up with sap the liquid is drawn off and fermented into either pulque or mescal. One is like beer. The other is like bad whiskey, according to American experts.

The plant at South Park will be in bloom until the first frost comes.—Buffalo Express.

Fiction Destroying the Forests

A STATISTICIAN, studying the question of the use of wood-pulp in the manufacture of paper, has lately estimated the amount of material used in the production of nine popular novels. Of these books 1,600,000 copies were sold. In the making of them 2,000,000 pounds of paper were employed, and as one spruce tree yields about 500 pounds of paper these nine novels are stated to have caused the destruction of 4,000 trees.

"YOUR tickets were complimentary, were they not?"

"Well," replied the man, who had seen a painfully amateur entertainment, "I thought they were until I saw the show."

The Latest in Wedding Rings

THE big broad gold wedding ring has rolled back into fashion again, and the bridegroom-elect is shown a wonderful variety of them to choose from. The big new rings are made of what is called barbaric gold; that is to say, they are entirely hand-wrought of metal so nearly pure that they will bend easily.
Broad as these rings are, not one of them is thick or clumsy or finished with a burnished surface. The dull, rich, and slightly alloyed precious metal is handsome and highly decorative for any feminine hand.

Sometimes the rough tracery of a vine runs about the outer surface of the ring, and inside, within an oval, are rudely marked the initials of the contracting parties. Not unfre-quently the lettering is done in Greek or Hebrean characters with some short and appropriate motto from Plato or the Bible following.

The newest of the wedding rings can be had in the red gold of India, the green gold of Australia, or the peculiarly pallid gold of Alaska. At this moment all those brides who like to cherish and encourage the newest sentiments present their husbands with a ring.
A plain circlet, richly carved, and engraved with motto and initials within, is the best choice, and this ring is slipped on the Benedict's finger by the lady just before or during the ceremony, as she finds the time and opportunity propitious.

Among the curiosities of wedding rings it is on record that in the early days rings were of rushes. Perhaps the most curiously made ring, required on an emergency, was one hurriedly made by cutting it out of the finger of a glove. Another ring was once made out of a visiting card. Many cases are on record of rings made of brass and iron being used, as also curtain rings and door-keys being pressed into service at weddings. The Quaker and Swiss Protestants do not use rings at their marriage ceremonies. The Irish people have a strong objection to any but gold rings.
In St. Kilda wedding rings are made of worsted. The women of the Upper Bayanzi, on the Congo, wear their wedding rings around their necks. They are made from thick brass rods, which are strongly welded together. The more wealthy the husband the heavier the ring. In some cases they weigh 30 lbs.

DIAMOND EASILY EARNED

Snapshots at Celebrities

MELBA AS A BILLPOSTER.—Madame Melba is one of the most unaffected women on the stage. During her recent tour in Australia she charmed everybody with her simplicity of manner and evident delight in meeting all her old friends, not one of whom had she forgotten. Melbourne must have brought back many remembrances to her of her childhood, and when still in pinsores she loved music as dearly as she does now, and would hum in baby fashion all the tunes she had learned at her mother's knee. At a concert, when but six years old, she sang "Comin' thro' the Rye" and "Shells of the Ocean" prettily enough to bring tears to the eyes of her hearers. Ten years later she suddenly announced her intention of becoming a professional singer, and advertised her opening concert at a friend's house. "Nellie's" parents strongly disapproving of the idea of her adopting a public life, asked all their friends to stay away. The young girl, nothing daunted, had some bills printed privately, and herself, armed with brush and paste, posted them about on every available railing in her native town. An audience of just two persons were present at the first concert given by the prima-donna whom all the world now delights to honor.

POMPous BUT NOT ROYAL.—The King of the Belgians is fonder of traveling about incognito than any other European monarch, and indulges this propensity to the fullest. During the summer of 1901 he was staying at a fashionable French watering place, and one warm morning went down for an early dip, attended by only one of his suite. Just as he was coming out after an enjoyable swim, he happened to collide with a stout Frenchman. The latter got in a great rage, and told the King rather rudely to look out where he was going to. "You are probably not aware," he stuttered, "that I am a member of the Paris Municipal Council?"

"Dear me, no!" replied His Majesty; "I did not know it. In that case, I must proffer you my humble apologies, for I am only King of the Belgians!"

ELIZABETH'S GERMAN GARDEN.—What book has been more read than this during the last few years? And everybody has asked, "Who is Elizabeth?" Elizabeth, as a matter of fact, was a Miss Beauchamp, sister of a London doctor, who went to study music in Dresden. Thither came Count von Arnim. He fell in love forthwith, and in due time the young people married, and went to live in Berlin. Now for the history of the "German Garden." The Von Arnims stayed in Berlin for several years. One fine morning the husband fell a-talking of his deserted place on the shores of the Baltic. "Let us spend a week there!" declared his wife. Von Arnim demurred. "The house is so out of repair!" he exclaimed. Nevertheless, they went. The wild and ragged garden and the homely abode took Elizabeth's fancy at once, and she decided, "I should like to live here for good and all." After a while Von Arnim came into her mood, and began to cultivate the estate in good earnest. It is remarkable what a pecuniary success his farming has proved. Fortune's wheel has turned in every corner of that estate. Three little girls were born to the Von Arnims, and they named them respectively April, May and June. For years they desired a son to inherit their estate with more than the ordinary longing of parents for an heir. At last a son was born to them—last February. His name? We do not know, but let us trust it is not February!

finding out the weight and height. Pictures of Oak Heaters are very much alike but the weight and height indicate the true value. This is important, for weight denotes the quality of a stove and height adds to its attractiveness; therefore, it is to your interest to get the heaviest and highest heater for your money that you can.

WE SELL 6 SIZES of Heaters as enumerated above, all made and finished like the illustration, with fire-resisting castings of special mixed pig iron, solid one-piece air-tight sunk bottom ash pit, large ashpan, ashpit door, air-tight screw draft, heavy corrugated cast iron firepot, large handsome firepot ring cemented and bolted to top and firepot stretched over cast flanges making the drum air-tight, mounted with 18-gauge smooth steel and heavy never-wear-out castings, fitted with hinged swing top ring, nickel door latch, hinge pins and knobs, 3 nickelized foot rails, nickelized register in ashpit door, nickelized name plate and hand-some spun brass urn. Important features are cooking lids under swing top, check damper in pipe collar and feed door, and shake and draw center grate for coal and wood.

OUR FAULTLESS OAK HEATER AT $9.45 recommend for all around use because experience has taught us that it is the ideal size for a heating stove. It weighs 210 pounds, is 58 inches high, has a 16-inch firepot, occupies 22½ inches floor space, and takes 6-inch pipe. PRICES ARE FOR THE HEATER FINELY BLACKED AND POLISHED ON BOARD CAR IN CHICAGO.

SEND US $1.00 deposit, state heater wanted, and we will send you to pay agent balance due and freight charges, after you have examined it and found it the heaviest and handsomest Oak Heater you ever saw or heard of for anywhere near our price. If unsatisfactory refuse to accept it and we will instantly refund your $1.00. Send for the heater or FREE STOVE CATALOG.

Given Away! "A Yard of Glee" Given Away!

The childhood innocence, beauty, joyousness and healthy color in this picture must touch a tender chord in every heart. Maude Humphrey has made the faces, aglow with excitement in the butterfly chase, rival the beautiful roses around them. The subject "appeals" to old and young. It is a work of art well worth a prominent place in every home. It is one yard long, on finest heavy copper-plate paper; and in 12 colors, thus making it true to nature.

MORE STILL All accepting this offer will also receive our beautiful Illustrated Premium List, containing over 200 useful articles and some of the most remarkable offers ever made. Knew Him

THE man got into an electric car comfortably filled, and crowded into a seat next to a sharp-faced woman in the corner. He squeezed her up against the end of the car, took out a newspaper, and, shoving it half across her face, began to read. She stood it for about five minutes.

"Excuse me," she said then, "are you a married man?"

He dropped his paper and looked at her.

"Yes," he replied, curiously.

"I thought so," she went on; "isn't your wife a little woman that won't say her soul's her own and lets you impose on her all you want to?"

"I don't impose on her, madam," he said, stiffly.

"You don't let her impose on you much, I expect."

The man tried to read his paper again.

"I suppose she carries in the coal, makes the fires, gets your slippers, does the marketing, mends your clothes, tends to the children, submits like a lamb when you find fault, and is generally an excellent wife, isn't she?"

"Madam——" he began.

"Don't say a word," she interrupted; "I'm not your wife, am I?"

"No, and I'm——"

"That's all right. And, as I'm not, I don't propose to have you sitting down on me and crowding me up in this corner till I can't breathe without wheezing like a steam-engine. Why don't you get out and walk?" And the passengers sniggered so that he did.

ACCORDING to the reports from the British exploring party, which went out on a hunt for the south pole, the arctic climate is as a balmy June day compared to that of the antarctic regions. A real sultry arctic summer day sometimes reaches way up to forty degrees above zero, but in the south pole region there is no work for the thermometer above the zero mark. The polar bear and the walrus find the antarctic climate too severe for their delicate constitutions, but the seal, wrapped in its fur cloak, braves even the rigors of the extreme south.—Four-Track News.

Life-Size Doll

"Babies' Clothes will now fit Dolly"

2
 $\frac{1}{2}$
Feet
High

"LIFE-SIZE DOLL"—"That's advertised," that the baby's clothes will fit. No clothes to make. If mamma can donate one of Baby's outgrown changes, that her little daughter can put on and off, button and unbutton to her heart's desire, the life-size doll will live in that child's memory long after childhood's days have passed away.

Every little girl loves a doll, more so a big doll; imagine how proud and delighted she would be if you gave her a real "life-size doll,"  $\frac{1}{2}$  feet high, that can wear real clothes, whose head won't break, eyes fall in, or suffer any of the mishaps that dolly is apt to encounter.

This doll is an exact reproduction of a hand-painted French creation, done on extra heavy Sateen, that will not tear. In oil colors that will not crack. The workmanship is perfect, the color effects the very finest.

The doll is intended to be stuffed with cotton, or other suitable material. It is this Century's model of the old-fashioned "Rag Doll" that Grandma used to make and would make Grandma open her eyes in wonder.

Dollie has Golden Hair, Rosy Cheeks, Brown Eyes, Kid Color Body, Red Stockings and Black Shoes, and in following the directions in making up, if a piece of heavy cardboard is inserted in the soles, a perfect shoe is formed, enabling the doll to stand erect.

"Life-Size Doll" sells at 50 cents

If you are unable to procure these Dolls at your Retailer's the manufacturers will, upon receipt of price, send postpaid to any address in United States, Canada or Mexico. Sold entire year.

A Limit to all Things

M E had been away on a long journey, and upon his return his wife was detailing to him a number of reforms and improvements which she had successfully engineered during his absence.

"And you know," she said, "that closet that was locked for over a month and which you said couldn't be opened except by a locksmith? Well,"—triumphantly,—"I opened it."

"Well, well, how in the world did you do it?"

"With a hairpin."

"And the furnace door," she continued, "has been slopping around on one hinge for ever so long just because you were too lazy to fix it, but it's all right now."

"Well I'm glad you had it fixed."

"Had it fixed! I fixed it myself—with a hairpin."

"And then there's that crayon portrait of mother that stood in the corner for almost six solid weeks because you never would bring me any picture-hooks—"

"Well I intended to, but—"

"Oh, 'but'! Well it don't make any difference now; I got it up with a hook I made myself—out of a hairpin."

"Ye Gods!" he said.

"And there's Willie; you've been coaxing him and bribing him for a year, trying to break him of biting his nails, and I broke him in a week."

"With a hairpin?" he inquired weakly.

"No!" she snapped, "Don't be a goose! With a hair-brush!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

A "LOVER'S ALARM CLOCK" has been brought out in New Orleans to refresh the memories of those happy couples who are too much absorbed by each other to notice the sleepiness of their "daisy-picking" relatives. As the clock strikes 10 p.m. two little doors open and a small man, attired in dressing gown and cap, glides out, holding in his hand a card, with the inscription "Good Night," a hint which rarely fails to be understood.

Rheumatism Cured Through the Feet

Jackson Man Discovers an External Cure by Analyzing Foot Sweat. Cures nine out of ten in Jackson.

Try It—Without Cost!

Anyone can try—without paying a cent—the famous Magic Foot Drafts, which always bring comfort and almost always permanently cure Rheumatism, either chronic or acute, no matter how severe. Hundreds of thousands of pairs of Drafts have been sent on approval all over the world and the makers are still sending them to every sufferer they can hear of.

Send your name today. You get the Drafts by return mail. If you are fully satisfied with the help they give you, then you can send One Dollar. If not, keep your money. You decide.

Sixty-eight per cent. of the nitrogen of the foot sweat drawn out through the great foot pores and absorbed by Magic Foot Drafts is in the form of the poison Urea, the basic cause of Rheumatism. The poison is drawn out in exceedingly small particles, but the Drafts work 24 hours a day, slowly but surely, and when the cure is once effected, it is permanent, for the cause of Rheumatism has been removed. The Drafts are comfortable, safe and sure. Don't suffer needlessly. You are not risking a penny and the chances are nine out of ten that the Drafts will cure you, as they have so many thousands of cases just like yours.

Mrs. F. N. Potter, of Shelton, Conn., writes: "I was a poor miserable object when I first applied the Drafts. Now I bless the day I heard of them."

It would take you many weeks to read the grateful letters of cured old rheumatics from every land on earth to the makers of Magic Foot Drafts. Try them yourself. Write today to the Magic Foot Draft Co., 1200 Oliver Bldg., Jackson, Michigan, for a pair of Drafts free on approval. Valuable booklet for rheumatics also free. Send no money—only your name.

Let stand two weeks, shaking frequently, and then wet the scalp each night with the clear liquid. This is an excellent remedy for dandruff. 4. Be careful of your diet, eat no candy, pastry or fried food and wash the face with a pure soap and water every night on retiring. Touch the spots with eau de cologne. 5. Soak the paint spot in benzine.

PINK ROSE.—1. Use a good bay rum and quinine tonic which you can purchase at any druggists. 2. No, it should not do so. 3. Half way below the knees. 4. Yes.

B. J. E. AND ROSEBUD.—Read answers 2 and 3 to "Pink Rose."

IGNORAMUS.—1. Wedding announcement cards require no answer. 2. If you wish to give a present to the bride send it to her on her return home. 3. Send your card to the house on the day of the reception. 4. No, presents should be sent shortly after the invitations are received.

BRIGHT EYES.—1. About to the tops of the boots, according to height. 2. No.

WATERMELON.—This is a difficult question to answer. Perhaps you are too self-conscious, that may be the reason. Be as jolly and unaffected in conversation with your men friends as with the girls you know. Don't be always thinking of a possible lover, this will quickly spoil all your friendships. Get interested in your work, read and improve your mind and when the right man comes along you will be well worth winning.

BROWN EYES.—S.—1. At eighteen the skirts are worn the fashionable length for ladies. 2. Either high on the top of the head or in a low coil in the back as is most becoming. 3. With your eyes and complexion you should be able to wear nearly all colors becomingly. 4. Yes, for evening dances. 5. Act in a well-bred, natural manner, either gayly or quietly as is your nature.

L. M. B.—Put a little pinch of borax in the water in which you bathe your face, and use a good toilet powder, dusting it off carefully with a soft handkerchief and see if this does not relieve the greasiness of the skin.

MRS. S. W. Z.—Naphtha should remove the stain from your waist.

Co-Operative Prices

are the lowest prices known and are not created by a sacrifice of quality as are the usual "low prices" but entirely by a saving of expense. The goods handled by a co-operative store are known the world over for their high standard of quality, because the share-holders of a co-operative store are also its best customers, and therefore, there can be no object in adulterating, substituting, cheapening or otherwise lowering quality. By dealing with a truly co-operative society you are not alone assured of a large saving of money but a positive and absolute guarantee that the saving is not offset by a corresponding decrease of grade or quality.

Bright's Disease and Diabetes Cured.

Harvard University Acting as Judges.

Irvine K. Mott, M. D., of Cincinnati, O., demonstrated before the editorial board of the Evening Post, one of the leading daily papers of Cincinnati, the power of his remedy to cure the worst forms of kidney diseases. Later a public test was instituted under the auspices of the Post, and five cases of Bright's Disease and Diabetes were selected by them and placed under DR. MOTT'S care. In three months' time all were pronounced cured. Harvard University having been chosen by the board to make examination of the cases before and after the treatment.

Any one desiring to read the details of this public test can obtain copies of the papers by writing to Dr. Mott for them.

This public demonstration gave Dr. Mott an international reputation that has brought him into correspondence with people all over the world and several noted Europeans are numbered among those who have taken his treatment and been cured.

The Doctor will correspond with those who are suffering with Bright's Disease, Diabetes or any kidney trouble, either in the first, intermediate or last stages, and will be pleased to give his expert opinion free to those who will send him a description of their symptoms. An essay which the Doctor has prepared about kidney troubles and describing his new method of treatment will also be mailed by him. Correspondence for this purpose should be addressed to mended to "R. A. G." 2.—Glycerine and lemon-juice, in proportions of two-thirds of the former to one of the latter, is excellent for the purpose. 3. Be careful of your diet, eat no sweets, potatoes or other starchy foods.

WHITE ROSE.—1. Your sallowness probably arises from a deranged digestion or sluggish liver. You should consult a physician and take a course of medicine. 2. Your only way is to be pleasant and polite whenever you chance to meet and let him pay attention to whom he pleases. 3. No, not if your mother does not object. 4. Use a good hair tonic and rub vaseline on your eyebrows every night.

BIDDIE AND M. E. B.—1. Use the hair tonic recommended to "R. A. G." It will stimulate the growth as well as remove dandruff. 2. Read answer No. 2 to "L. M. M." 3. Just below the knee. 4. Try to be as quiet as possible.

CLARA BELLE.—1. It is very rash to take such a dangerous drug without the advice of a physician. It may seriously injure you or even cause death. 2. Read answer to "L. M. M." and answer to "R. A. G." 3. Washing the hair frequently will make it fluffy. 4. No, that is superstitious nonsense.

IRENE D.—1. Yes, it is not at all right. 2. It is best for a young girl not to correspond with any but old friends. 3. No, not unless you were accompanied by a chaperone.

MISS B. M. B.—1. Use the lemon and glycerine lotion already recommended in this column to "L. M. M." 2. If your complexion is naturally dark nothing will change it. 3. Read answer No. 1 to "R. A. Many ladies are anxious to earn a few of our handsome and useful premiums, but are unable to obtain the entire number of subscriptions. To these we say

Send 20 cents for every subscription

you are unable to obtain;

for instance, if a premium is given for eight subscriptions, and you can only get six, send the six subscriptions and 40 cents; if you can only get five, send the five and 60 cents, and so on. We would rather have the subscriptions than cash, so get as many as you possibly can.

"HOW TO USE A Mc CALL PATTERN"

UP-TO-DATE DESIGNS

PERFECT-FITTING PATTERNS

THE FOLLOWING ARE THE SYMBOLS USED ON THE Mc CALL PATTERNS WHEREVER NECESSARY

Notches ( $>$ ) show how the pattern is to be put together and also indicate the waist-line.

Large Performances ( $\bullet$ ) show how to lay the pattern on the straight of the material.

Long Performances ( $\square$ ) show the seam and outlet allowance, and the basting and sewing lines.

BY means of a good paper pattern dressmaking becomes a very simple art. For this purpose The Celebrated Mc Call Patterns are superior in every respect, in fact, ladies refer to them as "the reliable pattern." Not only is a perfect fit guaranteed (if a proper size is selected) but the appearance of any figure is sure to be improved by wearing a garment cut after these patterns—they are made with curved seams adapted to the human form. A garment may be fitted by a Mc Call Pattern with none of the guesswork and troublesome alterations that are encountered when one of the carelessly cut patterns now upon the market is employed.

Another great point in favor of The Mc Call Patterns is the ease with which they are put together—without the possibility of a mistake—if the printed directions are carefully followed. Certain symbols (as above indicated) are used on all of The Mc Call Patterns to indicate the exact position of pleats, gathers, waist-line, inturns and darts, and performances show the exact basting and sewing lines and seam and outlet allowances. This feature has been recently added and is not found on any other paper pattern. No trouble. No guesswork. The same symbols wherever necessary on every Mc Call Pattern.

One Cross and a Perforation ( $+$   $\bullet$ ) show where the garment is to be pleated.

Two Crosses ( $++$ ) show where the garment is to be gathered.

Three Crosses ( $+++$ ) show that there is no seam and to place the pieces with three crosses on the fold of the material.

How to Use a Mc Call Pattern

First, take the bust measure, length of waist-line, length of sleeve (see cuts of measurements), after the proper size has been selected, double the lining lengthwise (always cut and fit your lining before cutting material), pin the pattern on the lining placing the pieces with three crosses ( $+++$ ) on the fold, carefully trace or mark through the lines of long perforations which indicate the seam and outlet allowance, also trace through the dart and other perforations; cut along the edge of the pattern, do not cut the darts through until the garment is fitted, this retains the original shape of the pattern. Place the corresponding notches ( $>$ ) together and baste along the seam and outlet lines ( $\square$ ); the lining is now ready to try on. If any alterations are necessary they should be made at the shoulder and under-arm seams where outlets are provided. After the lining has been fitted, pin and place the several parts of the lining on the material, with both right sides of material together with the grain of the goods running the same way, cut each piece along edge of lining and baste along the seam lines as a guide to sew by. When the seams are stitched, notch the seams and darts at the waist-line and thoroughly press them open.

The garment is now ready to be boned and any preferred stay or bone may be used.

The term, "laying the pattern on the straight of the material," means that the several pieces in a pattern, having a line of large round perforations ( $\bullet$ ), should be so placed that the line of such perforations in the pattern is on a straight line when placed lengthwise on the material.

Cloth should be cut with the nap running down, velvet up. For plaid or striped goods, before cutting, arrange the material so that the stripes or plaids match.

The above is a fac-simile of THE Mc CALL (model) PATTERN with perforations ( $\square$ ) showing seam and outlet allowances without waste of material—also

BASTING AND SEWING LINES Not Found in Any Other Pattern

Full description of the use of notches ( $>$ ), crosses ( $++$ ) and perforations ( $\bullet$ ) is printed on every envelope of THE Mc CALL PATTERN.

No. 1 indicates the front piece. No. 2 indicates the under-arm piece. No. 3 indicates the side-back piece. No. 4 indicates the back piece. No. 5 indicates the collar piece. No. 6 indicates the upper-sleeve piece. No. 7 indicates the under-sleeve piece.

The several holes running near front edge from neck to waist (in front piece) indicate the inturn or hem.

HOW TO TAKE MEASUREMENTS

Garments requiring Bust Measure.—Pass the tape around the body over the fullest part of the bust—about one inch below arm hole—a little higher in the back—draw closely, not too tight.

Waist Measure.—Pass the tape around the waist.

Hip Measure.—Adjust the tape six inches below the waist.

Sleeve.—Pass the tape around the muscular part of the arm—about one inch below the arm hole (this is for the lining sleeve only).

Length of Waist.—Adjust the tape from neck in centre back to waist line.

Misses', Girls' and Children's Garments should be measured by the same directions as those given for ladies, but when selecting and ordering patterns the measurements as well as the age must be given, as breast measures vary considerably in children of the same age.

Men's and Boys' Garments.—Coats, Vests, etc.—Pass the tape under the arms and around the fullest part of the breast.

For Trousers.—Pass the tape around the waist, also the inside leg seam.

For Shirts, etc.—Pass the tape around the neck and allow one inch for size of neck band.

Try the Cornish Plan.

If you don't know what it is write us about it to-day. We will send it free, together with our most beautiful Souvenir Album, our elegant colored and embossed miniature pianos and organs and full particulars of the free musical education we give to every purchaser of either a piano or organ.

THE CORNISH PLAN is the easiest, simplest on earth. It tells how we sell pianos and organs direct from the factory to the customer at wholesale, factory-cost price. Easy payments, too, if you say so.

THE EMBOSSED MINIATURES are exact reproductions in color and style of some of our leading styles of pianos and organs. They show just how our instruments will look in your own home and will greatly aid you in making a desirable selection.

THE ELEGANT SOUVENIR ALBUM is the finest example of the printer's art ever sent out by any piano or organ manufacturers in the world. It shows 50 different styles of pianos and organs and is our only solicitor; no agent or dealer will worry you; you can see exactly what we have for sale, and every instrument is marked in plain figures at lowest factory cost. You know just what a Cornish piano or organ will cost you Cash or Credit, and we have a scale to suit all pockets and any circumstances.

CORNISH

PIANOS and ORGANS
Factory to Home

Most Liberal Offer Ever Made.

To every purchaser of one of our instruments we give absolutely free a certificate entitling the holder to a two years' scholarship in the United States School of music. This is the most satisfactory plan of home education ever devised. Success is certain. You cannot fail with it. Full particulars with Album.

Try one of our pianos for one year. We send them anywhere. No money required in advance. If you find it not as represented send it back at our expense. We will pay the freight both ways and 6 per cent interest on your money. No better offer was ever made. Cornish pianos can't be excelled in touch, tone, style or finish. Been selling pianos and organs this way for 50 years, and not one has ever come back as unsatisfactory. We sell high-grade organs on the same plan. We make all our instruments and sell them direct to users. We guarantee to save you half the price and give a free musical education.

YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD UNDER THE CORNISH PLAN.

Over quarter of a million of Cornish pianos and organs are in use. Every one of them is noted for its style, tone, touch, quality and finish. We can show you one or more in your own town in use from 1 to 25 years in most cases. Don't take our word for it. We are willing to trust you. Try either a piano or organ at our expense. You don't pay for anything unless you keep it. If you want it, any reasonable easy payment plan will meet our approval. Send for one now.

How Some People Buy: Some people buy a piano or organ for the ease—they want fine furniture; some buy for the name of the maker—they want to gratify vanity; some buy for the fineness of tone—they want good music. You are sure of all these and more in buying a Cornish. You simply cannot make a mistake. They are the highest possible grade and built to last a lifetime, and the prices will surprise you.

Don't buy a piano or organ of any kind until you receive our new special Souvenir Album and Embossed Miniatures. The Album contains the most astonishing price offerings ever heard of and the most liberal offers ever made. Write for them to-day and you will receive descriptions of 50 different styles to select from, all at wonderful prices. Lay this McCall down and write now. If you neglect it you are likely to forget about it. Address
